It Could Be . . .

It could be that on Tuesday night Kelowna witnessed the high tide of a political career. Or, it could be that Kelowna witnessed the commencement of a low tide which may sweep the present Provincial Government out of office.

Either of these things could be. History alone will tell the story, but history itself will depend upon whether the very evident support—glorification—on the part of the people for Mr. Bennett is anything more than fluff, breath honor.

The Tuesday meeting was something astonishing. Long before the starting time, every available seat in the theatre and on the platform was occupied and literally hundreds were unable to gain admittance. More than three hundred waited in the street an hour and a half for the repeat performance which Mr. Bennett decided to hold. It was the largest political meeting in Kelowna in two decades at least, and it was by far the most enthusiastic. It was not the normal phlegmatic, unresponsive Kelowna audience; it was the people, annoyed, agitated, demanding action and willing to support the man who gave the greatest promise of giving them action; it was an anti-Bill 15 crowd and, above all else, it was an anti-Coalition Government crowd. If this be a true picture of the feelings of the people of this province—and there is no reason to believe it is not—stirring days in the political field are ahead.

There are those who stayed away from the meeting because they felt Bennett's course of action was wrong; that he should have made his protest in caucus and let it go at that.

There are those who stayed away from the meeting because they had come to the conclusion that South Okanagan had been jettisoned into a personal feud between Messrs. Bennett and Anson, and they did not like it.

There are those who stayed away from the meeting because of their staunch party-first-right-or-wrong beliefs which will not now permit them to have anything to do with Bennett, the independent.

Tuesday night's meeting—pardon, meetings—gave ample evidence that these groups together were but a small portion of the community thinking. They, the meetings, indicated that a great resentment has seized the people of this province and that resentment is focussed upon those who sponsored Bill 15. Because Bennett, a man who has never been described as popular, had the courage to stand almost alone and fight, he is now the people's "white hope." Victoria, when it heard of Tuesday's meetings, probably shrugged its shoulders and remarked, "What would you expect in his home town?" This newspaper does not believe that this is the answer. Kelowna audiences are not known for their enthusiasm; Kelowna is not noted for its attendance at political meetings, no matter what fireworks are forecast. The tone of these meetings was not that of reserved, conservative Kelowna. There was a much deeper undertone. Every part of South Okanagan riding was well represented, and for the most part, those present were not people who are normally interested in political campaigns. People attended that meeting because they were deeply concerned.

Victoria may shrug its shoulders, but it can't laugh it off. In its own interests the Government might well take a more serious view because those meetings Tuesday night gave every indication of being the handwriting on the wall, foretelling a change in Government. Those two meetings should indicate to every single member who voted for Bill 15 that he is, indeed, in trouble and that his re-election is far from safe.

However, while the major issue which can defeat the Government is here, it does not necessarily follow that Mr. Bennett will have any major role in the final coup de grace. He was very noncommittal in answering a question whether he intended to form a new party. Undoubtedly, he has this in mind. "It depends upon future events," he intimated. Future events, in his interpretation, mean what concrete strength he can rally around him. He now must ask himself whether the thousands of telegrams he has received, the hundreds and hundreds of personal words of commendation, the enthusiastic response to his meeting call—he now must weigh these things and ascertain whether they are more than surface expressions, word fluff, mouth honor. He, too, must draw to himself potential candidates and a reasonable assurance of quiet, behind-the-scenes but influential support. Future events alone will tell whether or not he can do this.

But, whether Bennett can do this or not, at this writing it would seem that in the passing of Bill 15, the Coalition Government of British Columbia has signed its own death warrant. It would seem that it has created a storm which time and election postponement will not heal. It was a major political blunder.

Just Too Ridiculous

If any proof was needed that the B.C. Liquor Control Act needs overhauling, it came last week with the announcement from Victoria that soldiers of Canada's active forces would not be allowed a sip of beer in B.C. beer emporiums unless they were over twenty-one.

The matter came to a head when a number of Canadians on last leave from the Korean force were refused beer in Vancouver beer parlors because they were under twenty-one.

Since when has a glass of beer become more dangerous than a rifle bullet?

Since when has a glass of beer become more dangerous than an artillery shell?

Since when has a glass of beer become more dangerous than an aerial bomb?

Since when has a glass of beer become more dangerous than an enemy torpedo?

Yet our estimable Attorney-General apparently considers it so.

Surely, if a man under twenty-one is considered capable enough to handle himself well in active warfare in the face of the enemy—surely, then, he must be considered capable of (Continued on Page 8)

TWENTY-ONE-YEAR-OLD Jack Aspinall, of Kamloops was in a hypnotic spell when The Courier photographer snapped this picture. The power of suggestion which Dr. Tex Morton uses in hypnotizing people is so strong that the sub-conscious mind can imagine anything. Aspinall, in the above photo, actually thought he was stroking Ogoogo, and when the hypnotist told him "Ogo is a friendly old fellow," a big smile broke over Aspinall's face. Questioned after he was awakened before 700 people on the Empress Theatre stage last night, Aspinall told a Courier reporter he "really saw Ogoogo."

Request Gov't For More Assistance To Growers

B.C. government will again be approached by the emergency advisory committee of the BCFGA for further assistance in reimbursing hundreds of growers hard hit by orchard tree losses during the 1949-50 winter.

The committee, meeting here Wednesday afternoon reviewed the situation and decided to urge the provincial government, through the minister of agriculture, Hon. Harry Bowman, "to seek co-operation from the dominion government in helping growers in necessary circumstances to get re-established through extraction of dead trees and replanting."

Recently, Mr. Bowman announced provincial government would give a $250,000 grant to cover tree losses, but BCFGA officials stated this will not cover the cost of tree removal.

The committee also requested the B.C. government to urge the federal government to co-operate in arranging for long term loans to growers, needing this type of assistance, at low interest rates.

Long Term Loans

The committee, in a wire to Mr. Bowman last night, stated explicitly that growers had not, at any time, asked for compensation for crop losses through frost damage, although these losses amounted to between seven and eight million dollars in 1950, and, over the years, until the new trees came into bearing, will cause losses of many more millions of dollars.

The committee also requested the B.C. government to urge the federal government to co-operate in arranging for long term loans to growers, needing this type of assistance, at low interest rates.

ALWAYS AN OCCASION for ceremony is the turning of the first sod for any large-scale project—and with the Kelowna Curling Club Saturday it was no exception. The sod-turning on the civic centre site west of the arena marked the beginning of the four-sheet, $30,000 rink, hoped to be completed by next fall.

H.V. Dawson, Patients Will Receive Refund Passes Away If In Hospital Under Ten Days

A well-known and respected member of the community, Harley Vance Dawson, 1842 Maple Street, died last night in Vancouver at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Wakely, 7012 Cypress Street.

Mr. Dawson, accompanied by his wife, went to Vancouver March 17 for medical treatment. About 55 years of age, Mr. Dawson had resided in Kelowna for 29 years.

Besides his wife, Mary, he is survived by one son, John Harley Dawson in Vancouver. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mrs. Jim Stewart (nee Doreen Wakely), accompanied by her husband, left Kelowna this morning for Vancouver.

Mr. Dawson's sudden passing came as a severe shock to his many intimate friends in the city.

BLOOD DONOR CLINIC OPEN UNTIL 9 P.M.

There are still a few hours left for local residents to visit the blood donor clinic located in the parish hall of St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church, 601 Sutherland Avenue.

The evening session opens at 6:30 p.m., and will continue until nine o'clock. While response to the blood donor appeal was very gratifying yesterday afternoon and evening, officials stated there would have to be a good turnout today if the 700-pint objective is to be reached.

Yesterday a total of 361 Kelowna and district residents donated a pint of blood.

Hospital Board Follows Policy At Coast

PAYMENT of co-insurance in advance of entry into Kelowna General Hospital will be expected when the government's new scheme goes into effect April 1.

Decision to take this step was made by the board of directors at the annual meeting of the Kelowna Hospital Society yesterday. Hospitals in Vancouver already have announced patients will be requested to make a deposit when they are admitted. This would not apply to emergency treatment.

Maximum co-insurance payment here would be $20, at the rate of $2 a day for the maximum of 10 days. In Vancouver General Hospital where day rates are the highest in the province, patients will be charged $3.50 a day for the first 10 days' stay.

Co-insurance was announced recently by Victoria. Amendments to the B.C. Hospital Insurance Act not only provided for an increase in premiums (from $33 to $42 yearly for families) but provided for patients to pay from $2 to $3.50 a day for up to 10 days as well.

R. P. Walrod, vice-president of the Kelowna Hospital Society board and acting chairman in the absence of W. E. Adams, said "we feel we have no alternative," when he announced the pay-when-entering plan today.

He explained that collection of co-insurance payments has been left to the hospitals themselves and if the Kelowna General Hospital is going to avoid increasing its staff, "we will have to ask for a deposit, based on the anticipated length of stay."

"This move is primarily to keep our costs down," he said.

Patients who are released before the anticipated stay covered by the deposit is up, will be given refunds. For example, if an anticipated stay of eight days turns out to be only four days and the patient has paid $18, then $8 will be refunded.

Mr. Walrod said many people have a wrong impression about co-insurance. The yearly maximum to be charged any patient (or in the case of a family any of his dependents) is 10 days' stay at the going rate (anywhere from $2 to $3.50).

A patient entering hospital will not be charged co-insurance if he can show he has paid the maximum already. In other words, in Kelowna, Mr. Walrod explained, if a "policy holder" has paid $20, he, his wife or other dependents covered by his premiums may enter the hospital any number of times during the year without paying more co-insurance.

"Although I don't like this co-insurance plan, still it has a purpose," Mr. Walrod said.

The feature not liked about it is that it can mean a host of bad debts. That's why hospitals are expecting payment at time of entry.

MLA's Stand On Bolting Gov't Ranks And Opposing Hospital Plan Upheld

BRITISH Columbians may see a new political party in the field when they go to the polls in the next B.C. general election.

And the corner-stone for this new party may well have been laid in Kelowna Tuesday night, the home-town of W. A. C. Bennett, MLA (South Okanagan). At one of the largest political rallies ever held in the history of Kelowna, the independent member of the B.C. House, who bolted the ranks of the Coalition Government last week, was obliged to address two meetings when the Empress Theatre was unable to accommodate the record crowd.

Over 700 people jammed the theatre to capacity, and another three to four hundred stood outside when the meeting got underway. After Mr. Bennett announced he would speak a second time, over 300 returned an hour and a half later to hear the fiery MLA give his reasons for crossing the floor of the House and also criticize the government on its policies during the past year.

Both meetings unanimously endorsed Mr. Bennett's stand in opposing the increase in the B.C. Hospital Insurance premiums, and also commended him for bolting government ranks to sit as an independent.

The Kelowna hardware merchant was careful in announcing future political plans. Only reference to a new political movement came during the question period.

"I am going to do one thing at a time," he replied when someone asked him if he was going to form a new party. "I am not making any announcement. What I decide to do after this meeting will be done after I have taken you into my confidence and have consulted my constituents. I believe in doing one thing at a time."

HOSPITAL PLAN ATTACKED

Amendments to the BCHIS Act bore the brunt of the attack. And the audience loved it. They clamored for more, and several times the speaker had to wait until the applause died down so that he could again continue his address. He defended the merits of hospital insurance, but declared a full enquiry into its operation should have been made by a royal commission before the increases were put into effect. At the same time, he asked the public to support the scheme by paying the premium increases.

"I believe in orderly government and not anarchy. Pay the increase and support your hospitals," he replied when asked if he advised against paying any more.

"What is your solution?" asked another questioner. "Defeat this government at the earliest possible moment," he replied. "If we have meetings like this in every part of the province, this government would be forced to resign."

Another question referred to the proposed single transferable vote. "That would be a stimulant for other parties to start working. In the event of another election, there would be Conservative, Liberal, CCF and many other parties. But whatever happens, send your best man down to Victoria," he said.

POLICE WARN HORN-TOOTERS

More and more complaints about noisy horn-blowing by wedding parties may force the police to prosecute, a Royal Canadian Mounted Police spokesman warned today.

"We'd hate to dampen any wedding celebration," said the officer, "but incessant horn blowing is unlawful—and we have to deal with complaints."

He suggested a lot less "tooting" might be better all around.

$54,000 PAID OUT IN JOBLESS INSURANCE HERE

Total of $54,000 was paid out at the Kelowna unemployment office in jobless insurance benefits during the month of February, it was revealed by J. H. Fox, manager of the local office, national employment service.

No Oil or Gas In Large Quantities In This Area

POSSIBILITY of the Central Okanagan ever becoming a major gas or oil producing area appears to be very slim.

But nevertheless, O. L. Jones, MP (Yale), was determined to ascertain if geological conditions appear favorable to the formation of accumulation of natural gas and oil in commercial quantity. Requesting a report on the matter, Mr. Jones received the following memorandum from John F. Caley, of the mines and technical surveys department of the federal government.

"Geological conditions as indicated are definitely unfavorable to the formation and accumulation of natural gas and oil in commercial quantity."

"It is reported by C. E. Cairnes, GSC, that features said to indicate oil were, upon examination, found to have no such significance. Thin seams over the surfaces of pools have given rise to the opinion that they resulted from oil seepages whereas they have resulted from decay of vegetables or animal matter.

"In 1930, a well was drilled for oil near Kelowna, and, so far as available records indicate, it reached a depth of about 2,740 feet and (Turn to Page 5, Story 2)

Fascinating Performance

Hypnotist Makes 'Subjects' See 'Ogo', Catch Monstrous Fish and Swim in Lake

By "THE BEAVER"

If several people come to you today and swear they pulled Ogoogo on the head, went swimming in the chilly waters of Lake Okanagan last night, spent a few hours relaxing on the sandy beach, or held for a photographer after hauling in a monstrous fish, don't shake your head and pity the guy.

He was probably one of more than a score of volunteers who performed in Dr. Tex Morton's hypnotic show last night in the Empress Theatre. Close to 700 people filled the theatre to capacity, while another 300 were turned away. Dr. Morton will give a repeat performance tonight, Friday and Saturday.

Without a doubt, the five-hour performance was one of the most fascinating shows ever witnessed here. The noted hypnotist who is rated as one of the top-notch entertainers on the North American continent and Australia and New Zealand, had complete command of his hypnotic subjects while they were in a trance.

And when Vancouver Sun feature writer Paul St. Pierre and yours truly interviewed several "subjects" after the show, they admitted feeling wonderfully refreshed and relaxed after being awakened.

Apparently there's nothing to this business of putting people to sleep. But one must concentrate. Concentrate very hard. And the "subject" must be co-operative, in that all worldly thoughts must be removed from the mind. The master's voice must be law. The higher the intellect, the easier it is to put a "subject" to sleep, with one exception. Apparently newspapermen (who probably have a low intellect) are hard "subjects" to put to sleep.

That was where fellow-journalist

St. Pierre and I got mixed up in a private demonstration of hypnotism. Late yesterday afternoon I visited a store in the Paramount Theatre block where for the past 48 hours Tex Morton had a youth named Paul.

Paul wanted to do a feature story for his newspaper, and asked me to go along with the gag. Unaware of what was planned, I readily agreed. But something went wrong somewhere. I refused to go to sleep. While I did my best to relax and come under the hypnotic spell, my sub-conscious mind apparently refused to collaborate with the hypnotist. After trying for half an hour, we mutually agreed that I was a poor "subject." Tex later explained that newspapermen are the hardest people to come under his spell. Their minds are too active, he said.

net charged that not more than three Coalition members were in favor of the hospital amendments when they were first proposed in caucus. "But they were threatened and brought into line," he continued. "I do not wish to condemn those who voted the way they did, but that is the situation."

Mr. Bennett admitted there had been some criticism over his position in crossing the floor. "I have been asked why I couldn't have voted against the BCHS and stayed with the government. That would have been safe, granted, and there would have been safety in numbers. But my reply is, if you want that kind of a member, then you should look for another representative for South Okanagan."

Mr. Bennett showed signs of political strain, and was extremely nervous at the outset of his address.

"When I offered my services as a candidate, I made it clear I was not a died-in-the-wool party man," he said. "At every election I have served the right to criticize the government at any time and on all matters. Where I stood then, I stand tonight."

He defended the early days of the Coalition government, and paid tribute to former premier John Hart, the late "Pat" Maitland, and former education minister Harry Perry. "The best government B.C. ever had," he said, "was a strong supporter of Coalition, and worked to set up a coalition organization in Kelowna, in fact, the only coalition organization ever set up in B.C."

NOTHING REMAINS OF GOV'T

"Of the whole cabinet, only one remains. (Anstcomb). And when I say one remains, nothing remains of the policies and platform of the Coalition Government which started out many years ago," he continued.

Decision to divorce oneself from the government was very difficult, he said. "I promised to come back to this constituency and explain my actions, and I have done so, but having taken such action, it is now my duty to ask for approval."

Mr. Bennett said there were many reasons for him leaving the government, but the final reason was the amendments to the hospital insurance act. "There was much bulldozing to put it through (amendments) in order to send the hospital bills out. That was when we saw democracy go out the window. We were seeing something very sinister right within our province."

The speaker said a hospital insurance statement has never been handed down in the House and that he refused to vote on something until he knew what he was voting on. He then quoted various figures on the hospital insurance scheme and claimed the report showed only revenue for a nine-month period while expenditures covered a 12-month period.

"If they needed more revenue for hospital insurance, it should have been taken out of the general revenue account. It is unfair for those who pay the premiums to shoulder the whole burden, as there are many who have not paid into the scheme," he continued.

SALES TAX REVENUE

Mr. Bennett then pointed out that the revenue from the three percent sales tax was estimated at $12 million, whereas the government collected $27 million. The sales tax revenue is collected from the people of the province, and this money should be used to offset the hospital deficit, he charged.

The M.L.A. referred to the recent budget as the "most extravagant budget ever brought down in the history of B.C." and criticized the government for raising salaries of government officials without considering the ordinary civil servant.

He rapped the government over its policy in collecting five-year drivers' licence fees and added this revenue would not be coming in after the first year of this new scheme. "Then where are they going for this additional revenue which will be lost for the next four years?"

As a sidelight, Bennett said he is one of the unfortunate who have to pay a five-year fee for four-and-a-half-year drivers' licence as his birthday falls before March 1.

He charged that it is a disgrace the way the government has treated the fruit growers in giving a grant of only $250,000. This money will not even cover the cost of tree removal, he said. "I told the government that when the temperature went down to 30 degrees below zero, it was no more colder than the cold shoulder growers got from the government."

"I told them all the growers are asking was money to cover loss of trees. Yet in Nova Scotia they are busing the growers for loss of markets and the federal government is helping in a tree removal plan. They (B.C.) wouldn't have given a nickel if I hadn't crossed the floor," he charged.

The government was also criticized for its refusal to re-open the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act. He referred to the cooperative efforts of the fruit and vegetable workers for taking voluntary cut in wages when the price of fruit dropped. "We cannot progress unless people get a decent wage in order to buy back the products of production."

EXTENSION OF PGE

He touched on the proposed extension of the PGE to Squamish. "I am all for building the PGE to that great northern country, but that is an expense for the federal government and not for the taxpayers of B.C. to shoulder," he said. Mr. Bennett termed it a "disgrace" to ask the B.C. taxpayers to contribute ten to 20 million dollars for the railway extension.

Government's stand on school teachers' pensions was also criticized. He thought the administration should live up to its promises made to the school teachers.

Touching on the contentious liquor question, the speaker said he favors the formation of a royal commission which would investigate the whole liquor set-up. "I want a full enquiry into the question and then a plebiscite should be framed so that the people can say whether they want less drinking or more drinking. I believe a plebiscite is long overdue, but a royal commission should be set up first."

Comparing the tax on automobiles in B.C. compared with Ontario, Mr. Bennett said the eastern tax is $10, whereas B.C.'s is $110—or eleven times greater. He emphasized the fact he would not be flinching with the Social Credit party in Alberta.

As a parting shot, however, he reminded his audience that Alberta's oil revenue last year was no greater than the revenue B.C. received from the three percent sales tax.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING

During the question period, the government building, which Kelowna has been fighting for for many years, was briefly discussed. A member of the audience asked Mr. Bennett if Kelowna was being discriminated against in regard to a public building.

The speaker referred to the property which the city had exchanged with the government on the understanding that a structure would be built. "We will get a government building in time. I believe the mayor and the city council thought they had a definite commitment (from the government). I do not see how it can be built this year due to shortage of steel, but it will come in due course, I think the government has been unfair in dealing with Kelowna in the matter of a building, but this city also got a large share of road work in this constituency and also a third ferry, he said.

In conclusion, Mr. Bennett said he favored an independent highway commission for the planning of all roads.

Chairman of the meeting was mayor W. B. Hughes-Games, who stated he was gratified over the interest the people are taking in the affairs of the government.

Touching briefly on the public building, the mayor said Hon. E. C. Carson had definitely promised the city a building on three occasions, and that the city had gone ahead with the exchange of property to pave the way for the construction of the building.

Bantam Packers Grab Big Lead in O-M Puck Playoff

Kelowna Bantam Packers Saturday night placed a tight grasp on the Ted Martin trophy they won for the first time last year, by defeating Kamloops bantams 7-3 at Kamloops.

It was the first of a two-game total goal series for the Okanagan Mainline championship.

Marlow Hicks' boys can retain the trophy Saturday in the second half of the series by winning, tying or losing by not more than three goals.

Povey and the Hicks twins—Warren and Wayne—paced the Packers to their four-goal lead Saturday at the Mainline city. Povey scored two and helped on three others, while Warren scored once and helped on two others.

Saturday Afternoon
Sammy McGladrey and Stan Macpherson tallied the other Kelowna counters.

Davoren, Boyd and Gannon were the Kamloops marksmen. Eleven penalties were imposed by referees Bud Fraser of Kamloops and Howard Hardie of Kelowna, seven of them to the Packers.

Time for the return game here Saturday has been set for 3:45 p.m. The early hour is to allow the Kamloops boys to get back home at a fairly decent hour. Kelowna played at Kamloops at the same time last Saturday.

G. F. HILLIARD, RETIRED CIVIL ENGINEER, DIES

George Frederick Herbert Hilliard, Okanagan Mission, retired civil engineer and World War I veteran, died in Kelowna General Hospital last Tuesday after a brief illness. He was 63 years of age.

Rev. F. D. Wyatt officiated at the funeral service this afternoon from the Okanagan Mission Anglican Church. Remains will be interred to Vancouver for cremation Saturday.

Resident of the Mission district for the past four and a half years, Mr. Hilliard was born in Minnesota. He was married twice in action in France with the Canadian artillery during World War I, he was discharged with the rank of major.

From then until his retirement he was employed as civil engineer with the Northern Irrigation District at Lethbridge, Alta.

Clippers Now Meet Edmonton Mercurys After Spilling Trail Smoke Eaters

Offsetting youth and hustle with a little bit of smog but more experience and a solid defence, Nanaimo Clippers pushed past the Trail Smoke Eaters in three straight last week to capture the Savage Cup and the B.C. senior hockey title.

The end came surprisingly fast for the Western International Hockey League standard-bearers for the second year in a row. It happened Saturday night when Clippers skated off the ice with a 4-1 triumph.

Earlier, the Islanders had posted 2-2 and 5-4 wins, the latter in overtime. The victory maintained the MOAHL's mastery over the WIHL circuit, begun last season when Kamloops Elks spilled the Smoke Eaters.

Next step for the Clippers is the best-of-five Western Canada semifinals for the Allan Cup against Edmonton Mercurys. Last year's world amateur champs. Series will be played at the Coast, with the winner to go against the Manitoba Western Ontario champions in the Allan Cup semifinals.

Winfield Soldier Home On Sick Furlough After Being Wounded in Leg

WINFIELD—Sgt. George Reising, who was wounded in the Korean conflict, is home on sick furlough and is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Reising at Winfield.

As a member of the first division, United States Marines, he has seen service in the present Far Eastern conflict on the Korean Peninsula almost since the beginning of hostilities.

He reports being in pretty good condition now, and will return to his depot at Oakland, Cal., at the end of the month.

They were travelling in Jeeps with their equipment through a sector which was supposedly quiet and free from the enemy when to their complete surprise they were attacked from both sides of the road by rifle and machine gun fire.

Wounded in Leg
Sgt. Reising received a bullet in the leg above the knee which passed through the fleshy part and on to the seat of the Jeep.

There was nothing the survivors could do but leave their vehicles and all belongings and flee for their lives back on the road which they had come.

There was little assistance on the retreat as the country was deserted of inhabitants who had fled the area previously, and after a great deal of suffering and hardship they reached a military area where they could get help. By this time they were footsore, weary and hungry and the wounded were suffering.

Sgt. Reising received medical aid and was transferred to hospital and GLENMORE—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Reed was the scene of a community miscellaneous shower given last Friday evening in honor of Miss Berta Ritchie, whose marriage takes place on April 2.

As Miss Ritchie entered the spacious living room, she was greeted by over 50 neighbors and friends, and after a few words from Mrs. Charles Henderson, the gifts were presented in two large covered boxes, decorated with Easter bunnies.

Inside the larger one, was a huge Easter egg, which, when opened, revealed the many colored parcels. QUIET WEDDING
IS SOLEMNIZED
AT COAST CITY

A quiet wedding took place Tuesday of last week at St. Ann's Cathedral, Victoria, at 8:15 p.m. when Mary Elizabeth Marty became the bride of Alan Clark Hoover, of Kelowna.

Father O'Connell performed the rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Marty, of Victoria, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hoover, of Adam's Lake.

Their sole attendants were Miss Dorothy Marty, the sister of the bride, and Mr. Ed Kraft.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a blue gabardine suit to match that of the groom's, which she accessorized in pink. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Her maid of honor wore a pastel blue suit, with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

A small family reception followed at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bouch, where the bride's mother assisted the principals in receiving the guests. She was in black and white checked suit with which she wore a carnation corsage. The bride's table, laid with a white cloth, was centred by the two-tiered wedding cake flanked on either side by tall white tapers.

Mr. Ed Kraft proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded.

Following a few days spent in Victoria, the newlyweds travelled via the United States to Kelowna, where they are making their new home.

Westbank Fire Brigade Supported by 18-80 Club

WESTBANK—An enthusiastic 18-80 Club has voted $50 to Westbank's Volunteer Fire Brigade as a grand finale to their 1950-51 season. This decision was taken at the "wind-up" meeting of the club in Westbank last week, when Fire Chief Paul Brown voiced the heartfelt appreciation of the brigade for this generous gift. Mr. Brown pointed out that the fire brigade must carry on without regular source of income until such time as a fire district is made of this area, and that while this move has been favorably received by a public meeting, it will be months, perhaps a year or more, before the necessary machinery can be made to operate so that upkeep of truck and equipment can be assured.

The 18-80 Club, launched last fall, has had a most successful season of fortnightly square dances and the 77 members already are looking forward to another winter of fun. At their final dance attended by 125 members and guests from Peachland and Kelowna as well as Westbank, the varied program consisting of exhibition dances, old-time waltzes, comic songs, as well as the routine square dances.

Mrs. L. S. Bowden was rewarded with great applause for her comic songs for which she dressed in appropriate costumes. Mrs. Ella Duzsik and daughter Sylvia, together with Grace Walker and Bessie Taneda, in fancy dress, gave a couple of Russian and Mexican dances.
Mrs. P. Kennedy and Hjalmer Jonsson were awarded the prize for oldtime waltzing, besides which there were door prizes, awards to the oldest lady and gentleman members present, these being Mrs. A. C. Hoskins and W. Merfield.
Mrs. M. L. Riley presided over the meeting and Mrs. L. M. Schram as secretary-treasurer, presented the financial reports, etc.

Cpl. D. Basham spent a short leave here and, in Kelowna last week and on his return to Fort Lewis, expected to be one of an advance party to a theatre of war. Another Westbank hero here on leave is Signman Leslie Duzsik, who is here for a month with his mother, Mrs. E. Duzsik. Les has been stationed at Fort Churchill and on his return east may take a further course in another branch of army work.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Humphrey, of Vernon, were guests at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Davidson, over the Easter week-end. Another Vernon visitor in Westbank is Miss Anita Fell who is spending a few days with her grandfather, H. C. Last.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Dobbin had as their guests over Easter, their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril White, of Vancouver. Accompanying the travellers to the Okanagan were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sayers, also of the coast city, who spent the holiday with Mrs. Sayers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crowe.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Schneider returned home Monday from a brief holiday spent motoring as far as Spokane.

Mrs. Stanley is visiting at Sardis and with a daughter at Campbell River for a time. Mrs. O. Mitchell and son Kenny, with Mrs. M. Kingsbury spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Watts, at Athlone. Mrs. D. Hardwick, who has been staying with friends in Edmonton and Lloyminster during the winter months, will return with the travellers from Athlone, where she too will visit her daughter, Mrs. A. Watts.

Mrs. A. M. Stewart, of Salmon Arm, spent the Easter week-end at Westbank with her sister, Mrs. K. E. Stewart.

Miss Mary Takeda returned recently from a holiday spent in Vancouver.

Ask Public Equip Wards At Hospital

An urgent appeal for donations to help furnish the Kelowna General Hospital addition now under construction was made yesterday by R. P. Walrod, during his report as chairman of the building committee to the annual meeting of the Kelowna Hospital Society.

"To furnish and equip properly our hospital will cost approximately $95,000, of which the board must find $45,000," Mr. Walrod told the meeting.
Most of the balance will be taken care of by a reserve set aside by former boards. The board hopes to get the rest through grants from the governments.
The solution for completely equipping the 70-bed wing may "eventually rest on the generosity of the citizens of Kelowna and district," Mr. Walrod said.
"I realize the citizens of Kelowna have done their part to a great extent, but for all that I still appeal to them to come forward with money, or promises of equipment," he went on.
"To those people who live outside the city limits I can only say you have the benefit of the hospital—please help us equip it. We would appeal to each area or community to form small groups to raise funds and to contact C. R. Bull. He will help you select a project within your means."
The same appeal I would put forward to the service clubs and to those who might wish to dedicate a ward to a beloved memory in this institution of mercy.

CONSTRUCTION CURLING RINK NOW UNDERWAY

Last Saturday was an important day for curling enthusiasts in Kelowna and district. Promptly at 2 p.m. the first official sod was turned by Dr. Cecil D. Newby, president of the Kelowna Curling Club.
A group of interested bystanders witnessed the ceremony. Located west of Kelowna and District Memorial Arena and north of the new City Hall, construction will start immediately.
Present for the occasion were vice-president George Sutherland and other members of the executive. These included Bert Johnson, Mayor J. J. Ladd, R. F. Parkinson, Parks Boards, and assistant city engineer Mac Trueman, who is also a member of the building committee.
Contractor G. Briesse was also present.

Height of the Rock of Gibraltar is almost 1,500 feet.

JOHN M. CROFT, GREENHOUSE OPERATOR, DIES

Seized by a heart attack Tuesday afternoon while tending to his greenhouse chores, John Mount Croft, 81, 784 Cadder Avenue, well-known resident of the city and district for nearly 40 years, died a short time later at the house of a neighbor on Byrne Avenue.

Turning to greenhouse operation after several years as a cobbler upon his settling here in 1912, the late Mr. Croft was active up to the time of his death despite his advanced age. He had been in low spirits, however, since the death of his wife here in November of last year.
Operated Shoe Store
Born August 10, 1869, in the Shetland Islands, Scotland, he married Christine Derwick in 1902. Upon their arrival here in 1912, the late Mr. Croft opened a shoe store on Bernard Avenue, where the Paramount Theatre now stands.
Soon after, he acquired lots in the Woodlawn district for his greenhouse, his plants became widely-known and in keen demand. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church choir in the early days and of the United Church choir later.
A son Robert predeceased him several years ago.

Rev. D. M. Perley, First United Church, will officiate at the last rites Saturday at 2 p.m. from the chapel of Kelowna Funeral Directors. Interment will be in the family plot, Kelowna cemetery, beside the remains of his wife.

CAR NEARLY DEMOLISHED

A 1946 passenger coupe was nearly demolished but the 20-year-old driver escaped with only a shaking up in a spectacular crash at 2 a.m. Tuesday on Richter street, near the Junior High School.
Driver Elmer M. Hett, 803 Clement Avenue, told investigating police the auto hit a pot-hole, went out of control, smashed a fireplug and ended up against a tree. Car damage was estimated at $1,250.

Hospital Ends Year With Small Deficit Of $2,572

INCREASE to $868 for per patient day cost and a deficit of $2,572.25 on last year's operations was revealed yesterday at the annual meeting of the Kelowna Hospital Society.

Noting an increase in per patient day cost from $6.31 in 1949 to $6.88 in 1950, R. P. Walrod, in the president's report, attributed the rise in "operating expenses" as "largely attributable to salaries." Mr. Walrod, giving the president's report in the absence of President W. E. Adams, is vice-president and chairman of the building committee.

Elaborating on the "small" $2,572.25 deficit Mr. Walrod pointed out the "hospital operating cost actually exceeded the operating revenue in the operating deficit of $5,918.12. Our non-operating revenue in the amount of $7,923.46, which should have been available to the board, was absorbed as working capital."

No Alternative

Mr. Walrod explained that "patients' accounts receivable other than the B.C.H.S. are relatively high as is our reserve for bad debts."

Refusal of the B.C.H.S. to provide sufficient working capital to compensate for this situation, even for additional stock required in the new wing has left us no alternative but to utilize our non-operating revenue. We had originally hoped and counted on this source of funds to be available to our construction program," said Mr. Walrod.

In spite of continuing complexities arising from the B.C.H.S. a high standard of service has been offered to the sick," Mr. Walrod maintained.

In his report as chairman of the building committee, Mr. Walrod reviewed the two years of difficulties met by the board from the time the board was "instructed to proceed with the erection" of the hospital addition to March 15 of this year when the first sod was turned for the 70-bed wing now under construction.

Delay Costly

"The unfortunate thing," said Mr. Walrod, "and one over which we had little control, was delay. We feel that what this has cost us in rising prices and many extra months of having to serve with overcrowded facilities has, in a measure, been offset by the knowledge that our plans have been carried out and have passed under the scrutiny of experts in hospital planning."

He felt the new addition would be ready for occupation by the end of the year, "barring unforeseen circumstances."

He concluded his report with an urgent appeal for donations of money or equipment to furnish the new wing.

A marked increase in the average length of stay per patient was cited by Miss Edith Stocker in giving her report as Kelowna General Hospital superintendent.

She felt the 10.21 days for 1950 (the average daily stay) as compared to 9.21 the previous year was partially due to the "unusual number of cases requiring prolonged technical nursing care."

Highest Average

During the year there were 3,736 patients treated in KGH. This was slightly less than 1949 (3,889) but the number of patient days was considerable, higher, being 37,459, an increase of 2,145 over 1949, said Miss Stocker.

The daily average number of in-patients through 1950 was 103.6, patients a day more than in 1949 and the highest average yet recorded, reported the superintendent.

Births were down to 560 from 517 in 1949 while deaths in the hospital were up to 104 from the 93 deaths during the previous year.

There were 2,314 cases in the surgery, an increase of 241 over 1949. Laboratory procedures showed a vast increase with 21,345 in 1950, 12,749 more than in 1949.

"The value of the Red Cross blood transfusion service to the patients in hospital was emphasized by the fact that in 1950 there were 461 Red Cross blood transfusions—over 100 percent more than in 1949," said Miss Stocker.

Reports lauded the work of the Women's Auxiliary to the Hospital and the Auxiliary to the Nurses' residence, particularly for their many donations of equipment.

Three Re-elected

During elections all three members of the board whose terms expired were returned for two-year terms. They were W. E. Adams, Miss E. Taylor and F. J. Whillies. Others on the board are Mr. Walrod, C. R. Bull, J. R. Beale, M.A., J.P., representing the provincial government, and Ald. J. J. Ladd, city councillor, representative.

It will cost just one dollar to become a permanent member of the Kelowna Hospital Society now. The constitution was amended to this effect at the annual meeting. Previously members had to pay a dollar yearly.

MIDGET PACKERS, who came closer than any other team to bringing a provincial hockey title to the Orchard City, were composed of city and district boys 16 and under, placed on an "all-star" team to represent the city in playoffs. They downed Vernon, Kamloops and Vancouver, but lost out to Trail in the finals over the week-end.

CANUCKS DISPOSE OF VERNON JUVES

Final hopes of a provincial hockey title coming to the Okanagan were dashed Monday when Vernon juveniles were beaten 8-5 by Vancouver Canucks in the B.C. juvenile finals at Vancouver.

It was the third and deciding game of the series. Vancouver won the first game 7-6 but Vernon came back to capture the second 6-5, forcing the third meeting.

BILL HEADING FOR 'PEG SOON: MAY RETURN LATER TO SETTLE

It's now official that Bill MacKenzie is leaving Kelowna. Both the 1950-51 Packers' coach and the Kelowna Senior Hockey Association confirmed it this week.

been real good to us. In fact we intend to try to return here for keeps—perhaps in five or six years from now."

Both also pointed out there is the best of relations between them and expressed regret at the parting of the ways.

MacKenzie and his family will return to Winnipeg shortly with the hope of landing a more lucrative coaching job with the Cleveland Barons' chain, with which he had a sort of working agreement while piloting the Packers.

Speaking for himself and his wife, Bill said: "We liked it here and the people here have

TRAIL TOO CLASSY

Packers Get By Kerries Only To Get Beaten in B.C. Finals

A BITTERLY-FOUGHT series against Kerrisdale, a tiring bus trip and then two games in less than 24 hours against as classy a midget team as the province has ever seen all added up to more than the Kelowna Midget Packers could handle.

Confident though short-handed, the Packers just couldn't match the well-drilled, perfectly functioning Trail machine at the Silver City over the week-end, going down by 7-3 and 6-4 scores in the B.C. finals.

"We really have no excuse to offer," said Manager Tony Folk upon the team's return this week. "We were outplayed by a better team—a team that practiced with juveniles and one that could whip lots of juvenile teams in the province."

Feted lavishly while off the ice, the Kelowna boys found pick-ups tough on the new Cominco Arena frozen surface. In the first game Saturday night the Trailites rolled to a 6-0 count before the Packers flicked the rigging behind goalie S. Maley.

They outscored the homers 2-1 in the final but never at any time threatened with major up-rising.

Blew Big Lead
In the second game played Sunday afternoon, the Packers, on sheer grit alone, fought their way to a 4-1 lead by the end of the second period. But they couldn't keep up the pace with only two lines thrown out against Trail's three.

Coach Jack O'Reilly ruefully watched the roof fall in on his charges and there was nothing he could do about it. The Trail youngsters peppering harried goalie Pete Zadorozny with a barrage of rubber that he will remember for a long time. Five got by, giving the Kootenay champs a 6-4 triumph and with it the provincial midget crown.

In the two-game series here last week, the Packers and Kerrisdale Monarchs battled to a 6-all draw in the first game, meaning brand new series for the last game on Thursday.

But this time the Packers presented a more workable attack. This time they never got behind and were good measure for their 6-3 win, giving them the semi-final series 12-9 and the right to go to Trail for the finals.

One Potent Line
O'Reilly, who took over coaching of the squad just a day before game time, even admitted the Packers were lucky to end with a draw in the first encounter.

The Kerrisdale Zonolites, coached by Bruce Mackay, brother of Vernon's Dave, were a smart out fit, but with most of their power condensed in one line. And spark on that trio was tiny Ron Cooper who figured in four of his teams six goals in the first game.

Used nearly any rest in the Vernon's Dave, was a smart out fit, but with most of their power condensed in one line. And spark on that trio was tiny Ron Cooper who figured in four of his teams six goals in the first game.

Standouts during the series here were the old reliables—defence stars Bill Williams and Ed Selzer, Alan Schaefer and Charlie Wakabayashi.

Twine-tender Zadorozny was the individual Kelowna star against the potent Trail midgets Saturday and Sunday.

MAP OUT LACROSSE PLANS AT ANNUAL MEET TONIGHT

START WORK ON CURLING PROJECT

Nearly $2,500 separated the lowest bid from the next lowest submitted for construction of the new four-rink Kelowna Curling Club rink, the executive announced this week.

Contract was let last week to G. Bries for $29,600. Others bidding on the contract and their bids are: S. Scherle $32,097; M. J. Busch $34,975; D. J. Lang, $35,648; Dore and Son, $35,935; Dominion Construction Co. Ltd. $36,977.

While bids were "somewhat higher than expected," it was felt the uncertainty of labor and rising labor costs was one of the main reasons, a spokesman said.

Work at preparing the ground for the foundations began this week.

CALL FOR BALL MEN TO ATTEND SUNDAY PARLEY

All players seeking to turn out with the senior baseball team are urged to attend a special conference in the Elks Lodge at 2 p.m. Sunday.

A special invitation is extended to young men who are newcomers to the city. Last year's players still with uniforms are asked to turn them in to the Valley Cleaners.

League play in the five-team Okanagan-Mainline league will begin April 22, with Kelowna getting a bye that day. First Kelowna game will be on April 28.

Larry Schlosser has an appointed coach for the coming season. Whitey Patriquin is managing the club as well as being president. Gordon Mirtle is a director.

The big problem at Elks Stadium is expected to be licked this year. Seeding will begin as soon as possible.

Rutlanders Need Only Tie To Win

The Rieger boys almost single-handedly pushed the Stampede to the sidelines as Rutland whitewashed the city team 7-0 Sunday in the third game of the Commercial Hockey League finals.

Rutland now leads the best-of-five series with two victories and one game tied. All the Rutlanders need now is a tie to win the crown, while the Stamps have to start from scratch, requiring three victories in a row.

Brothers George and Fred Rieger sewed up the contest with the first five goals of the game. George got two in the first and the other in the middle frame. Fred picked his tallies up one in each period.

Weak on Defence
Morio Koga and Andy Arnott added singletons in the last chapter for good measure. The Rutlanders had it all over the defensively weak Stamps like a tent. Stampede were minus their starry rear-guard duo of Jack O'Reilly and Jim Eldon.

Fourth and what possibly could be the final game in the playoffs comes off tonight at about eight o'clock. Arrangements are under way for a preliminary feature between certain bantam pucksters and their fathers.

If the prelim materializes, it will start at seven, to be followed by the commercial playoff tilt.

HOT SHOTS WIN GAYWAY MEN'S FIVEPIN TITLE

Rolling steady on the beam all through the six-game rollout, Hot Shots captured the men's commercial fivepin league title at Gayway Alleys last week.

Given a stiff run by McGavin's Bakery, the Hot Shots finally ended with 7,164, including 624 handicap, to end up 285 points better than the doughboys (the scratch team).

In the individual field however, it was McGavin's Joe Mildenberger all the way. He turned in an 864 on his first three games (269, 336 and 259) and ended the six-game string with a 1,615.

Stan Matsuba of Hot-Shots was next with 1,536.

Scores of the six teams in the rollout were:

BESIDES PILOTING his Nanaimo Clippers to the B.C. senior hockey title, playing-coach Eddie Shamlock took a personal-plus hand in the final series against Trail Smoke Eaters. The aging centerman, who retired less than two weeks ago and came back when his team was short-handed, was one of the standouts of the Trail-Nanaimo series.

SHORT HOLIDAY... Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Montgomerie are at the coast for a short while.

United Church Is Tastefully Decorated For Early Spring Candlelight Ceremony

Yellow 'mums and narcissus and bouquets of spring flowers against a background of cedar boughs formed the lovely setting for the candlelight ceremony in First United Church Wednesday of last week when Florence Elizabeth McGregor became the bride of Murray Settle Haworth. Rev. Ernest E. Baskier read the vows at 7.30 p.m. for the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. McGregor and the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Haworth, all of Kelowna.

A trio of pastel gowned attendants preceded the bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father. She chose a gown of traditional white satin styled with a fitted bodice and gored skirt slightly in train. The collar on the rounded neckline and the cuffs of the long sleeves were embroidered with applied roses set in a design of pearls and brilliants. Her floor-length veil misted over her face from a coronet headdress of pearls and brilliants and she wore a matching necklace, a gift from the groom. The bride bouquet was a cascade of pink Rapture roses with valley lily and stephanotis.

Miss Doreen Graves was the maid of honor, while bridesmaids were Mrs. Don Thomas. They wore identical dresses of eyelet lawn in blue and pink respectively, with matching mitts and Dutch caps, and carried pastel-hued colonial bouquets. The groom's cousin, Joan Burnett, was the tiny flower girl, dressed in dainty turquoise nylon net and carrying a tiny colonial bouquet.

Supporting the groom was his brother, Mr. Douglas Haworth, while Mr. Don Thomas and Mr. Jack Bogness ushered the guests. Mr. Ernest Burnett, the groom's uncle, sang "Long's Prayer" preceding the ceremony and "Through The Years" during the signing of the register. Dr. Ivan Beadle played the wedding music. Mr. C. D. Mitchell proposed the United Church Scene Pretty Wedding on Easter Monday

First United Church was the scene on Easter Monday of the wedding of Gertrude Irmgard Kurtz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kurtz, and John Gordon Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Kerr, all of Kelowna.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white net over satin with lace bodice and sleeves, the skirt slightly in train. Her finger-ring veil was held by a headpiece of orange blossoms, and she carried pink and white carnations in her bouquet.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Erana Heard, as her sister's matron of honor, who wore pink taffeta, and Miss Josephine Jantz, as bridesmaid, in pale blue net over taffeta. They wore matching bandeaux of spring flowers in their hair, and carried nosegays of mixed flowers.

Mr. A. Jantz proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents, 707 Cadder Avenue. Receiving the guests with the principal was the bride's mother who chose a grey suit for the occasion, with which she wore a navy hat, and white carnation corsage; and the groom's mother, attired in pale green with grey accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table was centred by the three-tiered wedding cake, surrounded by pink tulle and narcissus. Serviteurs were Misses Francis Oatman, Gwen Owens, and Donna Wilby.

The newlyweds left later on a two-week honeymoon trip by car to the west coast and United States. For going away the bride chose a lovely green suit with brown accessories, topped by a white shortie, with a corsage of yellow carnations. Upon their return, they will make their home at 740 Rose Avenue.

handling a glass of beer? But "No," says our Attorney-General. Surely if a man under twenty-one is considered eminently eligible to give up his life for his country—surely, then, we must assume he is old enough to drink a glass of beer? But "No," says our Attorney-General.

Come, Mr. Wismer, let's be realistic about this thing and stop hiding behind legal phrases and technicalities. The LCA could be amended easily and quickly to cover this point, especially as the Legislature is now in session. If it should be that you are afraid to "open" the LCA for such an amendment for fear of what it might entail in the line of additional amendments, why not be realistic about it and simply pass the word along to those who hold beer parlor licences that your department will make no prosecutions should they serve beer to members of Canada's active forces. That course might be slightly irregular but it is one not without precedent and it would at least eliminate the necessity of the people of this province blushing with shame and humiliation over your current ridiculous and unfair current ruling.

More About 3 HYPNOTIST MAKES

and instead of relaxing and letting the sub-conscious mind take over, they are endeavoring to find out what my powers are. This explanation bolstered my ego somewhat, as I was about to score myself a low-intellect rating. I'm just as glad the gag did not go through, as today I would probably be wrapped in hot water bottles and taking aspirin and hot lemonade. As a last resort, Dr. Morton roused the sleeping youth from his bed in the store window so that Paul could have a "subject" to write about. They took him down to the edge of the lake at the foot of Bernard Avenue, and while still in a trance, the youth took off his shoes and stockings, rolled up his trousers, and waded into the lake.

Still under the hypnotic spell, the youth actually "saw" Osoyogo. In fact Ogo swam up to him, and he patted the sea monster on the head.

Hypnotism a Science
Intrigued by Dr. Morton's fascinating powers, both Paul and I took in last night's show at the Empress Theatre. The first half of the program was devoted to cowboy singing and trick shooting.

During the intermission, we visited the hypnotist in his dressing room. Apparently he was upset over the lighting effects of the theatre, which interfered with his shooting ability. Insofar as we were concerned, we thought it was part of the show. Tex insisted this was not so, and declared the lighting arrangement would be changed for tonight's performance.

Then we got back on the subject of hypnotism. He explained hypnotism is a science. Technically speaking, there is only one mind, but it's divided into two parts, the sub-conscious mind making up 90 percent of the human being, and the other ten percent, the conscious mind. The conscious mind takes care of all actions, such as walking, or talking. All the things an individual does from the time of a small infant, is locked away in the sub-conscious mind. During a hypnotic sleep these can be brought to the fore.

"Svengali" Types
It is impossible to hypnotize a person against his will, and no person who is an alcoholic, can be put under the spell of a hypnotist. (I had a couple of drinks yesterday afternoon, but swear I had not reached the alcoholic stage.)

Generally speaking, a lot of people have the mistaken idea that all hypnotists are of the "Svengali" type of person, whereas, says Dr. Morton, usually the best hypnotists are quite unobtrusive in manner, merely making the "suggestions" while the subjects or patient, must of course, do the actual relaxing and take instructions from the operator or hypnotist.

People can sleep quite safely for periods up to 14 days in a hypnotic trance.

There's probably a lot of good-natured kidding going around Kelowna today as a result of last night's performance. And the young lady who insisted laying her head across the chest of a youth is probably the most embarrassed person. But she was in a trance. And when one is in love, anything can happen, especially when under the spell of a hypnotist.

BENNETT NOT FLIRTING WITH SOCIAL CREDIT

Although some political observers have speculated on whether W. A. C. Bennett, M.L.A., would lead the Social Credit party in B.C., the Kelowna hardware merchant is not going to start flirting with Premier Manning's Alberta government—yet.

Speaking before a capacity audience here Tuesday night, Mr. Bennett, during the course of his address, referred to the high automobile tax in B.C. compared with Ontario.

"I would like to compare Alberta, but if I did, my opponents would say I am flirting with the Social Credit party in Alberta. So we'll use Ontario as a comparison."

Mr. Bennett pointed out Ontario's tax is $10, whereas B.C.'s is $110—or eleven times greater than the eastern province.

LIBERALS WILL DISCUSS B.C. HOSPITAL PLAN

Recent increase in hospital insurance premiums and compulsory co-insurance charge, will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Kelowna and District Liberal Association to be held in the Women's Institute Hall Monday night at 8 o'clock.

KELOWNA LIONS PLAN RUMMAGE SALE APRIL 14

Rummage sale, sponsored by the Kelowna Lions Club will be held in the Kelowna Scout Hall April 14. It was originally scheduled March 10, but postponed due to the flu epidemic.

MLA FAVORS CHAIN LETTER PROTEST IDEA

The chain letter plan may have been ruled illegal by B.C.'s attorney general insofar as financial remuneration is concerned, but the South Okanagan's independent M.L.A. has advised the public to "flood the government with letters of protest whether they be chain letter or individual letters."

Speaking to a capacity audience here Tuesday night, W. A. C. Bennett said the government would be forced to resign if there was sufficient pressure. "If every person wrote ten chain letters and sent them to friends in and outside this riding, the wave of indignation would be so great, the government would be forced to resign," he declared.

And Mr. Bennett thought the chain-letter idea would accomplish the purpose very well.

KNOW OF ANY HISTORICAL ATTRACTIONS?

Do you know of any special points of interest, of a historical nature, in Kelowna and district? Howard Faulkner, vice-president of the Kelowna Board of Trade, advised the executive on Tuesday evening that the provincial government is keenly interested in hearing of such things.

According to information received from E. G. Rowbottom, deputy minister of trade and industry, a bronze plaque, measuring 18 by 24 inches, will be presented by the government to honor such attractions.

Information regarding these points of interest, whether it be a house, school, site, or whatever it may be, should be left with T. R. Hill, secretary of the Kelowna Board of Trade on Bernard Avenue.

Dick Parkinson drew attention to a log cabin at Okanagan Mission which could become a historical attraction. He suggested that it be preserved for posterity. Also on the site are some of the valley's first original apple trees.

It was decided to get facts and figures and refer it to the special affairs committee for their consideration.

GLENMORE ROADS BEING REPAIRED

GLENMORE—Premier Construction Co., is at present crushing several tons of gravel at Burch's gravel pit which will be used for resurfacing parts of the Glenmore Drive which have broken up due to the heavy frost.

Council recently interviewed officials of the road construction company, and the firm agreed to make the necessary repairs.

Code perhaps the most important of all marine resources of Quebec's Ungava Bay from the point of view of possible development as an Eskimo fishery.

Lack of trained teachers is causing an educational problem. 200 one-room rural schools in Canada being closed because of no teachers.

AUDITORS' FEES UPPED BY $200

It's going to cost the city an additional $200 to get its books audited next year.

At a recent meeting, Rutherford and Bazett Co. informed City Council that the annual fee would be upped from $1,000 to $1,200. Reason for the increase was due to increased office expenses, etc., council was told.

The matter was referred to the budget committee.

Canada's new one dollar stamp, issued in February, emphasizes the great wealth of Canada's fishery resources.

Canadian Club President Suggests Ways Newcomers Can Make Good Citizens

FOUR pertinent suggestions on how newcomers to Canada could make good citizens, were given by Gordon Crossley, president of the Kelowna Canadian Club, when citizenship certificates were presented to eleven new citizens at a colorful ceremony performed at the court house in the Casorso Block.

Mr. Crossley advised the newcomers to learn to speak the English language; exercise their privilege of voting; work hard, and not to neglect their religion.

Citizenship papers were presented by His Honor, Judge J. Ross Archibald.

Those granted citizenship papers include: August L. Ciancone, Annie Habinski, Michel Hollowach, Lee Hai, Mah Yim, Mar Yee, Tameichi Murao, Olgar A. Nelkenbrecher, Ng Bak Foo, Rirachi Tomye, Wong Wo Soy.

"In welcoming you to Canadian citizenship, I am acting principally as president of the Canadian Club," Mr. Crossley declared. "I am also personally interested."

Days of Isms
"To those of us who were born in Canada, it is always a pleasure to realize that people from other lands have decided to throw in their lot with this country, as our fathers did before us."

"These are days of isms—communism, socialism, nationalism. People want to prize their own ideals above others. That is natural, but I am sure that most Canadians feel that we should be proud of Canada, and at the same time allow others to feel proud of their own country. Nationalistic tendencies are in people's minds, yet more than ever before, we are becoming citizens of the world as a whole. What is good for Canada, must, in the end, be something that is good for the world."

Something Useful
"To these applicants, I would say we feel that you will bring something useful from your former nation to ours, and try to build that into our structure. By voluntarily deciding to aspire to Canadian citizenship, you have relinquished citizenship in your nation in favor of that of Canada. We recognize this, as we hope you do, and we are glad to welcome you into our midst."

"This entails certain obligations and I would like to bring these to your attention, as I see them. You now live in a democracy. That word has been bandied about by those who wish to confuse. My conception of a democracy is one in which every member works for the welfare of the whole, voluntarily because he wishes to. Each has a responsibility to himself and to his fellows to do the best he can for his community. Not under pressure except that which he himself exerts on himself, but that should be of the highest order."

"You are assuming a responsibility to your new country which you should exercise with great care. To the extent which each member of a democracy shoulders his responsibility, to that extent does the democracy remain, a happy place in which to live."

Speak English
"First of all if you don't now speak English, learn it."

"Second, you will now have the privilege of voting. Do that always. Try to understand what each individual and the party he represents stands for. Decide which you want to vote, yourself. You have the right to vote any way you wish, but see that you do vote, whether it is in municipal, provincial or federal elections."

"Third, you are free to work where you wish. Work as industriously as you can. An industrious worker can become prosperous in Canada."

Fourth, don't neglect the religion of your fathers, follow it here in Canada freely, but as reverently as in your former home."

"You have voluntarily decided to live in Canada. We welcome you to a freedom greater than many countries are willing to offer. If some of you have unhappy memories of less freedom somewhere else, forget them. Remember what you have here."

"We are sharing with you our most prized possession. Our personal freedom. Citizenship in a country that we love and which we hope you will love as much as we do. You will love it if you work for it at the same time as you work for your own home here," he concluded.

BOARD TOLD NO DECISION ON BUILDING

Kelowna Board of Trade executive has been advised by Hon. E. C. Carson that no decision has yet been made on the construction of a public building in Kelowna.

It was not known whether the letter was written before Mr. Carson had advised W. A. C. Bennett last week that no provision had been made for the building in this year's estimates. The story was carried in a recent issue of The Courier.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HOSPITAL TAX

The Editor,
The Kelowna Courier:

Dear Sir—Compulsory collection of money by government is a tax on the people. Therefore a so-called hospital insurance is a tax.

The present great outcry, and seemingly without exception, is against the increase in this tax, less benefits, and inability to provide beds. These things are real and in its distress the public sees them and tries to clutch them. They are but straws in the wind. The situation can be rectified, cut in benefits ameliorated, tax reduced some (maybe) but, more likely, be proved irreducible. Then where are you? Still carrying a burden. An iniquitous tax.

Get after the principle. It is basic to this tax that it is unfair because it does not recognize ability to pay (except welfare cases). So it is inevitable that consciously or unconsciously you would always be restless under it. If clumsily wielded, as now, you will howl; if subtly if you would relapse into dogged uncertainty.

Before insurance, hospitals were always hard up. The idea of insurance, it seems to me, came from government in order to correct this condition. It sold the scheme, though, as "security" and we were given the impression we were claiming for it. However, hospitals I think, had turned no one away so the public already had this security. In other words the public was quiet but the hospitals were not.

The way to have rectified the hospitals' trouble would have been to have collected a patient's bill in full, part or not at all in accordance with his income. The balance being paid out of the revenue of the province. This revenue in turn being provided out of an income tax, a tax which only takes according to one's ability and not a "rain-or-shine" tax like the three percent sales tax and hospital tax.

In this way the socialistic feature of compulsion is removed; hospitals are solvent; the sick taken care of without exception and without an unreasonable burden upon them because their bill is assessed according to their financial position. Cost of welfare cases is spread fairly over all taxpayers. Costly hospital tax collecting agency is not needed.

Unjust taxes must be stopped. Remember there is another round the corner, contributory old age pension. All these things can be had, if you want them, but get them the right way—by fair taxation.

Yours truly,
ALEX C. BEASLEY.

APPRECIATE ASSISTANCE

The Editor,
The Kelowna Courier.

Dear Sir—At our annual meeting just concluded, a hearty vote of appreciation was extended to the press for the wonderful support you have given Scouting during the past year, both in your editorial and news columns.

This support is all the more appreciated when we realize the demands made upon your valuable space.

It is most gratifying to note the growth of the Scout movement in British Columbia and Yukon (from a membership of 8,001 in 1945 to 14,450 today). These thousands of boys are learning to be good citizens of tomorrow through Scouting, the program of the movement is making would not be possible were it not for the generous support of the press in keeping the public informed of our activities.

Yours sincerely,
J. O. WILSON,
President B.C. Boy Scout Assoc.

ANSWERS CRANK LETTER

The Editor,
The Kelowna Courier.

Dear Sir—Would you please allow space in your paper for the publication of an anonymous letter I received recently, which I believe will be of interest to the members of trade unions in this city.

Mr. Rachtner:

You are making a big shot of yourself shouting about hospital insurance. It is no worse than what you and Valair pulled off in this valley. You don't care about the people, it is the fat salary you take off them. What have the packing-house workers got? Only starvation wages since you and packing houses formed it. It was through you that wages are so low, for which we are forced to pay two dollars a month for it and it will be up to the packing houses whether we get more money or not. You can't do a thing and you know it. I wonder how much you get off them. You must know that you are the most undesired person in this town and next to you is a guy named Leckie. On yes, there is a rough time ahead for you and your name will be mud.

MR. AND MRS. PACKING HOUSE WORKER.

P.S.: Look in the mirror and look at yourself!

Sir, I am writing you this letter to point out to all workers and employers, that if a letter is going to preserve our way of life we must guard ourselves against the type of persons who wrote the above letter.

This type of person has not got the intestinal fortitude to go into a local union and lay such charges as mentioned in the letter so that his fellow worker may decide whether he is right or wrong. He will write anonymous letters, through inference create trouble amongst his fellow man on the job and attempt to bring pressure upon someone he disagrees with by knocking on that person's windows at night if he is sure there is only a woman and children home. The same type of person at times fools some employers by slipping into the office to give some petty information about a fellow worker. Thank God these people are recognized by most employers and workers for what they are.

May I conclude by saying, that the legitimate trade union movement and those who represent it have gone through many "rough times" in the past, but still remain strong and ready if necessary to go through them again.

Sincerely yours,
W. H. SANDS,
President, Okanagan District Trades and Labor Council.

The Editor,
The Kelowna Courier:
Dear Sir—Referring to your editorial "Passing the Buck" dated March 15, I sympathize very much with the Okanagan fruit growers and am of the opinion that, if the floods at Winnipeg and the coast, also freeze the east are classed as national disasters, the winter-killing of the fruit trees is in the same category and deserving of a bonus.

But you must be very much misinformed when you infer that the $85 million is a hand-out to the prairie farmers. Please rest assured that no Liberal Government at Ottawa will give anything to those C.C.F. farmers of Saskatchewan that is not legally coming to them.

In 1945 and 1946 the grain farmers were compelled to bonus the Canadian consuming bread to the extent of 30c per bushel amounting in the two years to approximately 60 million dollars.

What would you say if the fruit growers had got orders from Ottawa to sell their apples at $1.50 instead of $2.50? Dictators, no doubt. Again, Hon. James Gardiner signed a contract with England, selling wheat away below market price, thereby losing the farmer (according to the estimate of the president of the Grain Exchange) 600 million dollars. Both the British and Canadian governments agree that the producer is entitled to some refund, but on account of improper wording of the contract, nothing can legally be collected. By the way, no fair-minded farmer would expect to collect much from England, admitting that the British bore the brunt of the war and therefore entitled to some help.

In the same five years the live-

It was just two short years ago that Philco introduced to refrigeration a true "down-to-the-floor" refrigerator. Not just a refrigerator with a full-length door... but one that did away for the first time with all waste space, made full use of every inch for real refrigeration. Immediately it was recognized as the most beautiful, most useful, most efficient refrigerator ever designed.

Now, for 1951, in almost every price class, Philco gives you the long door design that uses every inch right down to the floor for real refrigeration... maximum storage capacity with no wasted space. It gives the housewife the opportunity to own a big refrigerator in a minimum of kitchen space. It makes the "short waisted" refrigerator obsolete and out-of-date.

It's the modern style women demand today for appearance, for utility, for value... the most wanted of all refrigerator designs. And it's yours to own, in a wide choice of 1951 Philco refrigerator models.

Local Lumber Head Tells Of Progress Norway Has Made in Reforestation

HIGHLIGHTS of his recent trip with B.C. government officials to Norway to conduct a research into the reforestation and production of forests in Norway and Sweden, was given by S. M. Simpson, who was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Kinsmen Club.

He pointed out in many ways both Sweden and Norway are ahead of Canada, but in many places they still prefer the age-old methods they have been carrying on for many years. He said their method of reforestation and preservation was one of the most marvelous in the world. Many of the forest lands which lie between the 60 and 70th parallels, or approximately the same latitude as Alaska, are privately-owned by large estates. Mr. Simpson also pointed out that these people work with one common interest at heart, the preservation of their major industry.

He told Kinsmen of a typical day spent on one of the large estates. The people are very friendly and hospitable, he said. He told them of the ten-coupled and interesting system of "skolling" where the host starts a round of toasts after the first course and they then continue with any and everyone participating.

Learn Early

Mr. Simpson, who spent a week in a university in Stockholm studying forestry, said during his interesting address it is common for a boy of six years to be sent into the forests to study and he is then raised to the occupation of forester. The young boys study methods of handling the latest machinery so that by the time they reach manhood, they are seasoned foresters. They hold a position of high esteem in that country, and are not regarded as just another "lumberjack."

Frances Langford Compares Blue Bonnet — It's Her Favorite!

Here's a hint from Frances Langford. Compare BLUE BONNET Margarine with any spread at any price. Like the famous vocalist, you'll love BLUE BONNET's fresh, sweet flavor! Rich nutritional! Real economy! BLUE BONNET is fine quality all-vegetable margarine. Use BLUE BONNET in cooking, on vegetables, as a delicious spread. Buy BLUE BONNET and get "all three" — Flavor! Nutrition! Economy!

Blue Bonnet margarine is sold in two types: regular economy package with color water and also in the famous YELLOW QUIK bag for fast, easy cooking.

Continuing his address, the speaker told how a considerable amount of lumber is used for the pulp and paper industries in Norway. For this reason, trees are grown from one foot to one and a half feet thick, not as large as in Canada, and these size forests are reserved for the pulp and paper industry.

Mentioning a few other points, Mr. Simpson said he had been on a tour through an iron ore plant where they were using the same methods of production as they did 100 years ago. He said they produced a marvelous grade of iron because it lacked impurities even though their method was of a lower standard.

In conclusion, he said the Norwegians are an extremely healthy, affable and contented race under their socialist government. Their spirit of co-operation between labor, management, and the government is to be marvelled at the world over.

Miss Betty Caldwell, who is taking a nurses' training course at the Royal Columbian hospital, New Westminster, arrived home on Easter Monday, to spend a month's vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Caldwell. Their son, Bob, is also spending several days at home, having arrived last Friday. r.p.m.'s column

YUMA, Arizona.—It was an interesting afternoon that the b.w. and I spent on the lot of Paramount Pictures. We saw Bob Hope and Hedy LaMar making a scene for "My Favorite Spy" and Ray Milland working in a scene for "Rhubarb."

Some readers of current fiction may remember that latter story which was published three or four years ago. A wealthy man would not leave his money to his relatives and left it all to his cat. The estate included a major league baseball club. It is a comedy, of course.

And so now when we see "My Favorite Spy" and "Rhubarb" appear on Will Harper's marquee, we will rush to see whether or not the "takes" we saw got in the films or fell on the cutting room floor.

The only way to describe a movie set is "orderly confusion," or, perhaps, "confused order." One's first impression is that of a melee of a hundred men each getting in the other's way. One wonders if any of them have any idea what they are trying to do.

They certainly do not seem to be in any great rush to get whatever they are trying to do done. They wander back and forth apparently quite aimlessly, but there must be a point to it all because finally the camera does start to roll.

The b.w. and I were under the wing of one of the public relations men of the studio. He took us to lunch at the studio dining room and pointed out a number of stars, supporting actors and starlets. There were many familiar faces but we were quite at loss as far as the starlets were concerned. It looks alone have anything to do with the movies; I found that some of the girls I thought had the looks were merely office stenographers.

After lunch we went over to see Bob Hope and Hedy LaMar in action. We were told that Hedy is somewhat temperamental and generally insists that there be no visitors while she is working. Hope, however, is quite different, and our guide said that he apparently had had the final word when they were working together as a few visitors were being allowed.

We made our way into one of a dozen similar buildings which resembled nothing as much as an airplane hangar. A big one. We wandered past and behind a number of "sets," stepping over two-inch electric (I presume) cables at every foot and working our way around all sorts of gadgets both big and little.

Suddenly we rounded the end of one set and walked right into the garden of a desert villa or hotel. So help me, there was just the spot I had been looking for in California. Clear blue sky, clear sand, palm trees, a pool flanked by lounging chairs and an attractive building just behind! In one step we passed from a "junk room" to orderliness, peace and luxury.

The catch, of course, was that it was all make-believe and all one-sided. But it looked real enough as long as one did not let one's eyes stray to either side.

Another set we saw was a garden of a country estate. It, too, was in a building but it was complete with trees, running water, flowering shrubs and I suspect, even mosquitoes. That was being used in the Ray Milland picture "Rhubarb."

There were interior sets of the house itself and while the b.w. was busy admiring the woodwork and the furniture, I was more interested in examining the food laid out for an evening snack on the dining room table. I found the roast and the cheese and the butter and the sandwiches and the crackers were all imitations. But they did look real enough to eat; it took a close examination to ascertain that they were just permanent props.

We found that that afternoon they were shooting a short scene on another set—one of Hedy's bedrooms. What went before I do not know but she apparently had fainted in the middle of the floor. Hope rushed in, picked her up as she came to. He looked at him, said "You!" and gave him a shove that sent him flying.

That is all there is to the scene but it took the better part of the afternoon. There is the lighting to fix; the sound to get just right; the makeup to be just so; the camera range rectified. It is all detail work and slow work, apparently.

While all this is going on, the stars' stand-ins are doing just that, standing in in place of the stars. Dressed similarly to the stars, they are the dummies around whom the scene is actually built. It must be tiring work. Hedy's stand-in was in the one spot for the better part of an hour. For the most part she stood still. (Excepting her jaws and how she could chew gum!)

She was a "bit player" who also acted as Hedy's stand-in. She was just as beautiful as Hedy, almost. I've heard it said that movie stars off the screen are not any more beautiful than any other good looking woman. That may be, but for my money they still are good looking. Hedy LaMar certainly was beautiful that day, despite the makeup she may have had on and which was not conspicuous enough for me to notice.

Well, when the cameras and the lights and the sound were all arranged, the stars were called. (They have portable dressing rooms on wheels which are moved from set to set.)

There was a little more checking and some altering of lights and the scene was rehearsed. The first time Hedy showed Hope he landed on his funny on the floor. He did not appreciate that and wanted a mattress but they were interrupted by having a man off scene catch him as he fell.

While Hope was grousing, Hedy was laughing hard and he finally started to grin and the two of them thereafter had quite a bit of repartee which we and the camera crew thoroughly enjoyed. Hope came out with several wheatears which proved to me at least that he did not need someone else to write all his radio jokes.

They shot that scene a dozen times, I guess, and by the time the director called a halt, I felt I could get in and do it pretty well myself. The best of the dozen shots will go into the picture. Unless the whole scene happens to be cut out in the cutting room.

The Milland scene in "Rhubarb" was a crowd scene but the general procedure was the same.

Actually, we saw or learned little new that afternoon. But we did see in actuality the things we had read about and seen in pictures in magazines. It was interesting and we now have a much better idea of how movies are made and a greater appreciation of the ingenuity and detail work which goes into the making of a motion picture.

The movie industry, I gathered is in a business slump. "Television" has cut into the box office returns and many theatres are in trouble. Some, indeed, have closed.

But, apparently, the movie people have gone realistic and are now making films for television. They feel that this new departure will compensate for box office loss and, perhaps, in the long run the movie industry will be better off.

While around Los Angeles I talked to several people about movie people themselves. I was interested in the feeling was in their home town about the scandals, the divorces and what-have-you.

One man put it this way and he seemed to sum up the general opinion as I found it:

"Generally speaking movie people are no better and no worse than other people. For the most part they are simply people trying to make a living and most of them live quietly and decently at home. You never hear of them."

"But take a group of several thousand people from your home town and in that group you are sure to find a few lightweights, a few immoral persons. But would you condemn your whole town because a dozen or so act foolishly?"

"Yet, the public generally condemns the thousands of quiet-living motion picture people because occasionally some star gets into trouble."

"There are doctors and engineers and others who have domestic troubles and scandals but one does not condemn all doctors or engineers because of it. And some of them have been married four and five times too. But simply because the movie people are in the public eye, everyone knows whenever one of them strays in the slightest way from the straight and narrow."

He will be missed by many who trust that the "Matthews Flat" may perpetuate his memory.

RURAL HOMES FOR TEACHERS COST $1,200

A practical suggestion for the improvement of living conditions of rural teachers was made at the B.C. Teachers' Federation annual spring convention in Vancouver this week.

On display was a 16x24 teacherage consisting of living room, dining room, kitchenette and bathroom. The approximate cost would be $1,200.

The teacherage was designed in consultation with Pan Abode by John Wilde, industrial arts teacher in Abbotsford and chairman of the housing accommodation committee of the B.C.T.F. A serious problem before the federation and school boards is the unsatisfactory housing conditions of many teachers in rural areas. Wilde's teacherage offers an economically priced accommodation which could be rented to teachers. The teacherage was demonstrated to school board representatives as well as the general public.

Also under consideration of B.C.T.F. housing committees is a proposal to establish a co-operative building society among teachers. The four-day convention drew

Veteran City Worker Who Has Watched Kelowna Grow From Small Settlement Retires After Forty Years' Service

A veteran city employee, who has watched Kelowna grow from a small settlement of a few hundred people to a thriving metropolis of over 11,000, has been superannuated after serving the municipality for over 40 years.

Percy T. Dunn, city assessor, whose name is very familiar to land owners especially when tax notices are sent out, is now enjoying a well-earned rest, for a short time at least. Despite the fact he is 63 years of age, Percy plans to go job-hunting again, "just to keep myself occupied."

During the many years Mr. Dunn held the multifarious duties of assessor, acting city clerk, licence inspector and collector of licences, toll and road taxes, cemetery fees, building and plumbing permit fees and dog tax collector, it is estimated he collected over $4,000,000 in taxes during the 30-year period he held this post.

Before walking out of his office for the last time, Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games paid tribute to Mr. Dunn's ability, stating he had performed his duties "in an honorable and conscientious manner."

A suitable presentation was later made by members of the City Hall staff.

Started in 1910

While he has no plans for the immediate future, Percy plans to take it easy for the next few months. But he wants to get another position, as he does not believe in having too much time on his hands.

He first entered the city service in October, 1910, when the late Mayor D. W. Surand offered him the position of assistant to the city clerk. At that time the city was in its infancy, the office staff comprising two people, one of whom was George Dunn, Percy's brother.

Mr. Dunn arrived in Kelowna in July, 1908. One of the first men he became acquainted with was the late Ven. Archdeacon Greene. The following September, he joined St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church choir, and for the next 30 years, he was an active member.

During the immediate years preceding World War I, the archdeacon, Mr. Dunn and a Mr. Humphreys conducted classes in basic English for Chinese students, in the old building presently used as Kwang Sing Laundry. This was for one night a week during the winter months.

The Chinese did not prove to be apt pupils, but showed deep appreciation for what had been done. Mr. Dunn assisted in the canvassing for funds for the new Anglican Church, and for a number of years was a member of the church committee, and for two years, people's warden. During 1928 he made a complete record of all interments in the Anglican cemetery which proved acceptable to the city whereby the corporation took over complete operating control "in trust."

Church Fund

During 1929 and again in 1934, he was honorary secretary treasurer of a fund for presentation to Archdeacon Greene, various contacts being made with old acquaintances in remote parts of the world. Hand-some sums became available for these presentations, and Mr. Dunn is proud of the fact he played a small role in honoring a minister who was respected by everyone.

In the early years, Mr. Dunn was an active member of the operatic society, secretary-treasurer and member of the choral society and men's glee club. His preference always leaning toward operatic societies, before 1914, he was a member of the rifle association, associated with the R.M.R.'s and during the first world war, a member in the home guard.

Great War II called for more training. He was a member of the St. John's Ambulance Association, being awarded the necessary qualified certificates with medalion and labels. With later studies and examinations, in industrial first aid, alternately receiving certificates C, B and A respectively, he was nominated as the city's first aid official in compliance with the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Due to pressure of public duties, Mr. Dunn was not active in sport activities, although he enjoys cricket, curling, lawn bowling, skating, launch cruising, fishing and hunting. Billiards and bridge are his favorite indoor sports.

Raises Bees

As in the Old Country, two hobbies are still carried on in a small degree—apiculture and gardening. He was co-founder of the Linden Apiaries which is still successfully operated by G. F. Pearcey as one of the best equipped plants and apiaries in B.C. He still takes an interest in apiculture, operating a few colonies, or hives, of bees, with returns in honey for his personal use and friends in Canada and in England.

At present, he is serving his third term as president of the Kelowna branch, British Columbia Honey Producers' Association. In 1928 he married Fannie Glover Ogden, the artist daughter of the late Rev. J. W. Ogden, D.C. She passed away in 1947, and three years later, he married Sarah Beatha Marie Gilchrist, only daughter of Mrs. Gilchrist and the late A. C. Gilchrist, superintendent of finance department, ministry of labor in the government of Ireland.

Figures are always boring to most people at the best of times, but Mr. Dunn has been working with them ever since coming to Kelowna. Although he joined the city office staff in 1910, it was not until three years later that he was appointed assessor and collector. At that time, light, water and sewage projects were being launched by the city, and it was decided to increase the staff.

Readjust Values

A complete readjustment of all assessed land values had to be made on a downward scale, as most of the properties had been assessed on boom values of 1910-1911. When the slump came, it forced further drastic cuts in the assessed values and was followed by several years of large tax sales which reduced tax revenue properties causing the municipal councils financial difficulties.

In 1949, City Council decided to remove collection duties from the assessment department, but the assessor was asked to calculate and compile the tax ratings for the 1949 roll. Although few assessment appeals were placed before recent courts of revision, the 1950 court ordered a complete re-assessment of the whole city. To complete this undertaking accurately, about three years would be necessary, but steps were immediately taken to card some 4,300 lots and owners and also record detailed information regarding building applications on hand since 1923.

This was completed by the end of May, 1950. The city was marked off into nine sections. Section I comprised some 500 structures, but due to the fact in a large number of cases building permit applications had failed to make correct returns, more exacting detail work was involved. It was then felt ne-

CITY APPROVES TRADE LICENCES

City Council recently approved granting trade licences to the following individuals:

Mrs. Lillian Ryall, 1477 Ellis Street; Lloyd W. Marr, retail trader in health products, 1431 Ellis Street, providing necessary bond is furnished; Mrs. Mary M. Hankey, tea room, 430 Bernard Avenue; Gordon F. Shaw and Fern E. Shaw, operating "Shaw's Resthaven," eight rooms, 1019 Harvey Avenue.

necessary to postpone this activity and concentrate on the 1950 new structures. These valuations were completed during November, 1950 and the assessment roll compiled of 182 pages in type embodying the owners' names, addresses, definition of properties and valuations, was completed.

Tribute to Mr. Dunn's ability as an assessor, was shown in the 1951 court of revision, when only eight appeals were lodged out of a total of 4,300 structures. There were no land valuation adjustments.

Long Hours

The hours put in by members of the city hall staff today are a far cry from the early days. When Mr. Dunn first joined the staff, there was no such thing as half-day holiday or two weeks' holiday with pay. It was necessary to burn the "midnight oil", and basing Mr. Dunn's hours on today's work-week, it is conservatively estimated he put in 375 hours overtime a year. Calculated from 1914 to 1948, this amounts to 13,125 hours, or a year and a half extra services citizens of Kelowna have received from this veteran city employee.

We like to go visiting to see how other people produce textiles. A good many come to visit us, and we like this too. All main countries have textile industries, and people come from other countries in the western group to study our methods. The textile industry here in Canada is among the leaders in technical skill and effectiveness. And along with the U.S. it pays the highest wages for textile employment anywhere. In Canada the industry is the largest employer of manufacturing labor. Textiles also pay the largest manufacturing wage bill in this country. In these times, the size and technical ability of the industry are important features of Canada's strength.

Half of 25 Cent Licence Increase To Go Toward Support of Council

It will likely cost hunters and anglers more to pursue their favorite pastime following the decision of the B.C. Interior Fish, Game and Forest Protective Association to support a Kelowna resolution aimed at raising funds for the B.C. Sportsmen's Council.

Sportsmen from the Interior, including 29 registered delegates and twice as many more interested spectators, attending the annual convention at Vernon, approved the Kelowna plan for increasing licence fees by 25 cents. Half of the additional revenue gained by the increase would go to the sportsmen's council, the resolution urged.

On the basis of the number of licences issued in 1950, the increase is expected to bring in $36,000 to the B.C. Game Department.

This resolution was one of many submitted by the Kelowna and District Rod and Gun Club and part of the 100 dealt with during the twenty-second annual convention, March 18 and 19, in the Allison Hotel, Vernon.

With Interior Zone President Avery King of Penticton in the chair, men who find their interest in the great outdoors discussed the pros and cons of these resolutions concerning one of the province's major natural resources—its wild life.

LIKELY WILL BECOME LAW

On hand to guide the sportsmen in their efforts to maintain the B.C. Interior as a sportsman's paradise, were Game Commissioner James Cunningham, game biologist James Hatter, fish biologist Dr. P. A. Larkin, and Ernie Taylor, all of the B.C. Game Department.

Resolutions passed at the convention will be submitted to the provincial convention at U.B.C., where they are almost certain to receive passage and will then be handed to the B.C. Game Commission.

Sportsmen disclosed where a good deal of their interest lies with a long and lively discussion on big game hunting.

Steady encroachment of civilization on the more remote areas of B.C. has brought about a constant struggle for feed between catties and game.

In order to give the game a fighting chance, a resolution was passed asking the department of lands recognize the rights of game to decent winter range which has been usurped by private interests. The meeting asked that when an agronomist or other forest service employee assesses range for grazing that he do so with regard to big game use of the land, particularly with reference to winter range.

This resolution was touted by Avery King as one of the most important of the slate. He stated that ranges, in their natural condition and grazed by wild life, are spongy and receptive to moisture. Herds of range cattle tramp the ground hard with the result that freshets and spring moisture run off the surface instead of soaking in. This fact is costing the taxpayer millions, said Mr. King.

DEER SEASON REMAINS SAME

Most controversial issue was the season for deer. After hearing a variety of pleas from the various regions within the zone, an open season extending from September 1 to November 30 with a limit of one buck was given support. Game Commissioner Cunningham said that if the weather is bad and snow deep early in the season, the department may slash the season by two weeks.

Speaking for the Yale-Similkameen area, the Penticton delegate asked that the season not be opened until November 30. "Another winter like the last and there will be no deer in the Similkameen," he warned. However, despite the plea the November 15 opening date was maintained, subject to special action by the game commissioner.

The season on moose in Yale-Similkameen will be closed and in districts where they are open, bag limits will be one bull, moose or elk.

Season for black, brown bear and grizzly bear was set the same as last year.

LEGALIZE SIX-INCH TROUT

Discussion was made of the use of shotguns on big game. Sportsmen resolved that use of shotguns except with rifled slugs, not including the 410 gauge, be prohibited throughout the province except in municipalities where the use of rifles is prohibited.

In his report to the meeting, president Avery King had advocated that more emphasis be placed on ensuring that fishing continues as one of the major attractions of the Interior. Apparently in sympathy with his plea a considerable number of resolutions were passed regarding the fish population.

Archie Blackie, of Kelowna, spoke in favor of a resolution asking for a scientific survey of Okanagan Lake. He stated that a check he had made disclosed that 709 hours were required by one group to catch 17 fish in that lake last year.

The Game Commission will be asked to investigate the possibility of planting fish, other than Kamloops Trout, in various lakes.

Size limit on fish in certain designated creeks is to be lowered to six inches and sportsmen asked that Kokanee in the Interior be classed as a sports fish and that netting of that fish be discontinued.

The meeting also decided that regulations governing non-resident Canadian sportsmen remain unchanged and that sportsmen continue to press for control of aircraft.

Support was given to resolutions asking that a two-way radio be installed by the game commission at the Penas Lake hatchery, and that the B.C. fish and game council issue bulletins informing sportsmen of what is going on.

SEEK TO DOUBLE FINES

A program of education in fish and game matters for the younger sportsmen was also endorsed in principle by the meeting. Such a program could be worked through the junior forest organizations and similar organizations. Penticton has at present a highly successful program designed to teach young fellows the need for conservation of the country's rich heritage of wild life.

A baby of the Vernon and District fish and game club was a resolution asking that the B.C. Game Commission be requested to furnish each club with a summary of their scientific investigations. This was passed by the meeting.

Included among sundry resolutions supported by the meeting were those asking that the game commission purchase sufficient land adjoining the hatchery at Sumnerland for construction of rearing ponds, that the game warden be given wider powers in recommending licence suspension when denying with infractions of the game act, and that minimum fines for upland and migratory birds and deer infractions of the Game Act be doubled.

A resolution asking that the seller of firearm licences be required to obtain proof of citizenship was passed by the meeting. Les Viel, who sells licences in Vernon, stated that outside of demanding to see a birth certificate or citizenship papers, checking on aliases was difficult.

Report of the secretary disclosed that membership in the zone is at an impressive total of 3,356. He disclosed that game clubs were working in close co-operation with the central body with satisfactory results.

King returned during elections. Mr. King was unanimously voted back into the presidency of the association. W.

the predator branch of the game commission towards the control of the coyote.

Also pointing up the strength of the zone was the fact that the zone had 27 resolutions out of an agenda of 67 at the last provincial meeting. There are eight zones in the province.

Mr. King thanked members of the organization for their co-operation during the year and was particularly high in his estimate of the work of secretary, J. B. Lalonde.

NEXT GAME MEET WILL COME HERE

Delegates returning from the two-day annual convention of Interior game clubs at Vernon report

Open or Closed Ringneck Season Will Depend on Outcome of April Census

VERNON—Sunday, April 8, is census day for the Interior's pheasant population. On that date, members of every club in the B.C. Interior Fish, Game and Forest Protective Association will comb their particular district to get a count of the pheasant population, which will be used to determine whether seasons will be opened or closed this fall.

The date was set at the annual meeting of the Interior organization, sitting at the Hotel Allison.

North Okanagan clubs asked for a closed season but South Okanagan sportsmen thought an open season could be held, as far as Kelowna was concerned. Capt. W. Hartley, of Kamloops, foresaw a closed season as being necessary for the next five years. Said Vernon delegate "Bob" Carswell: "We haven't any birds here; a closed season is an absolute must."

"Normal in Kelowna"

Kelowna's A. Blackie said the pheasant population in Kelowna seemed to be about normal and he suggested that a decision be held over until a count check was made. Game Commissioner James G. Cunningham agreed, at the same time pointing out that seasons should be dealt with year by year, not on a five-year basis. He said the pheasant decline might easily right itself in a year.

Dave Henry, Vernon, thought a count should be taken in June, July and August in order to obtain a more accurate estimate.

If the sportsman is not going to get a chance to shoot pheasants, he at least will have a long grouse season to help take up the slack.

The convention's resolutions list suggested a one-month season, from September 15 to October 15, but on the advice of Dr. James Hatter, game biologist, the convention passed an amendment, recommending an open season from September 15 to November 15.

Grouse at Peak

Dr. Hatter explained that grouse are at their peak cycle now and he repeatedly told the gathering that hard hunting would do the grouse population no harm. About the originally suggested season of one month, Dr. Hatter said, "You are penalizing yourselves."

The Revelstoke district was granted an earlier season, from October 1 on willow grouse. Two other resolutions, from Yale-Similkameen, suggesting closed seasons in some areas were withdrawn.

In the same light, (get them when they're at their peak) delegates approved a daily bag limit of six of one grouse species, 12 of all species with a season's bag of 36 in the aggregate, an increase over last year.

Closed seasons were supported for Hungarian partridge in the Kamloops-Salmon Arm, North and South Okanagan, while an open season on huns was recommended for Yale.

Ducks Cause Debate

Most contentious point concerning ducks was the hours of shooting. The final decision was to have the day from sunrise to one hour after sunset, although several members were in favor of a half-hour before sunrise sunset, while still others advocated shooting from one hour before sunrise to sunset.

The duck bag limit was left the same as last year: daily limit of eight, season limit of 100.

Recalling a statement that famous printer and wild life authority, Major Allan Brooks, Okanagan Landing, had made to a convention some years ago, a Penticton delegate asked the hunters and fishermen to kill as many coots as the limits allow. He said Major Brooks had blamed coots as part of the reason for poor fishing in Okanagan Lake. "What we should have is a coot derby instead of a fish derby."

Defeated was a resolution that the prohibition against the use of reflector shotgun slugs be deleted.

TRADE BOARD WANTS CREEK WORK STARTED

The lower portion of Mission Creek is urgently in need of attention.

Concerned with the problem—especially in view of the fact that official consent regarding work was given long ago—the Kelowna Board of Trade is going to press the issue.

Tom Wilkinson, of Bonaville, has been delegated to draw the matter to the attention of W. A. C. Bennett M.L.A. at an early date.

A letter will also go to Hon. E. C. Carson stressing the need of doing the work immediately.

Keller, Oliver, is vice-president. A secretary will be chosen later.

G. L. Pop, Vancouver, is honorary president, while C. H. Robinson of Nelson is honorary vice-president. Delegates to the forthcoming provincial convention are Mr. King and Robert Carswell, of Vernon.

New Swiss Discovery F"99"

for Eczemas, Boils, Psoriasis, Leg Ulcers

THE DISCOVERY of one of the main causes of skin diseases will bring new health and happiness to thousands of people suffering from Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and Psoriasis. Science has established that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in nutrition reduces the natural resistance of the body and leads to skin disease. As this precious substance—so essential to skin health—is often completely absent in modern food, the number of skin sufferers in all civilized countries has a tendency to increase every year.

Remarkable Discovery
A Swiss chemist, Dr. W. Schmitz, succeeded after 10 years of research work in extracting from pure vegetable oils an unsaturated fatty acid with a concentration of 99% and therefore named F"99". Thanks to this very high purity which was never attained up to now, F"99" is so readily absorbed into the blood stream, that it has a decisive biological activity in the treatment of skin diseases. Its remarkable efficiency has astonished even Skin Specialists of international reputation.

Natural way to clear up skin troubles
F"99" is not a synthetic drug but a concentrate of natural nutritive substances. It is absolutely harmless and may be given even to infants without any hesitation. As its name suggests, the F"99" Two-Way Treatment (capsules or liquid), and externally (ointment), while F"99" Ointment treats the external symptoms, cause to combat successfully Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and even Psoriasis. To many thousands of skin sufferers all over the world, F"99" Two-Way Treatment has already proved its tremendous value.

Seek Probe Into Scarcity Of Fish in Okanagan Lake

VERNON—There is no reason why a survey of North Okanagan lakes and streams cannot be undertaken this year, said Dr. P. A. Larkin, fish biologist, speaking at the recent B.C. Interior Fish, Game and Forest Protective Association annual meeting.

This year, Dr. Larkin says, sees an increase of $1,000 or 75 percent, in the budget over 1950, for B.C. fisheries. Not more than 10 percent of this should go into scientific research, he declared.

The speaker announced the establishment of management groups. Duties for field work will be research, management and special management, in that order. At the present time, Inspector Jimmy Robinson, of Nelson, is the only fish cultural expert.

Hatcheries, he said, offer the best, simplest and quickest returns, but "we should strive for a balanced fish cultural program. Ten years from now, fish culture will be a bigger business than it is today."

Dr. Larkin expressed doubt that Kamloops trout is the best species to plant in coastal waters.

A Blackie, Kelowna, sponsored a resolution which carried unanimously, stating that a scientific survey, made of Okanagan Lake, as to why fish are so scarce. He declared that 709 man hours were expended to catch 17 fish by members of the Kelowna and District Rod and Gun Club. That his club has $1,000 earmarked for fish propagation on any proposal to receive the approval of Dr. Larkin, was a statement by Mr. Blackie.

As an example of the difficulties which follow when nature is altered to conform with progress, Dr. Larkin cited Tweedsmuir Park, where the level of some lakes has been raised as much as 250 feet, changing the whole natural history. A dam is contemplated at Capilano between the mouth of the river and the spawning grounds. A possible power site may be established in the Fraser Canyon. These developments make fish cultural problems "terrific," he declared.

Research in game matters is more difficult than fisheries research. Game must be studied both winter and summer, while fish biologists can secure more of their information in the summer.

Two game biologists have been taken on by the game department this year, one of whom is destined for the Interior, probably in the Kamloops area. The technical staff will be increased in future also.

Moore as on the increase in the South Thompson area, according to Mr. Hatter, but they must be given a little more time before a hunting season is opened.

The speaker disclosed that more and more the game department would attempt to hand over part of its heavy task to biologists assigned to the various regions, and thus lighten the load at headquarters as well as increase the efficiency of the work.

Since only male deer are shot in B.C. in contrast with many of the United States where does are also fair game for the hunter's gun, the buck population is the real issue as far as conservation is concerned. He disclosed that in many parts of B.C. there was a ratio of one buck to one doe while south of the border some officials put the count at one buck to 10 does.

An invitation to hold the 1952 convention in Kelowna was accepted with thanks. Date likely will be the same as this year's.

IN MANAGEMENT LIES SOLUTION OF GAME ILLS

A Lot More Field Work Needed, Biologist Tells Interior Game Convention

An intensive type of game management was advocated by James Hatter, biologist for the B.C. Game Department, speaking at the convention of the B.C. Interior Fish, Game and Forest Protective Association in the Hotel Allison March 18 and 19.

A lot more field work than is presently undertaken will be necessary for this program of game management, Mr. Hatter said. "We don't know whether we are under-harvesting the deer in some areas," he said. "We are only beginning to get the technical information necessary to establish accurately what harvests we should be making."

The speaker announced the establishment of such a program of game management from 1949.

SOME HEADWAY MADE IN PROBE ON PHEASANTS

VERNON—How the scientist is coming to the aid of the sportsman was explained to members of the B.C. Interior Fish, Game and Forest Protective Association, in annual session here, March 18 and 19, when they listened to Ernie Taylor, game department biologist, speak on upland game birds.

Pheasant populations have decreased sharply in the last three years, not only in B.C. but also in the United States and other provinces. This decline forced, in 1948, the start of experimental work on all upland game birds, but particularly on that grand game bird, the pheasant.

The priority task at the moment is to assemble basic information, Mr. Taylor told the convention, in order that remedies can be formulated. The Delta area at the Coast has been selected and the experts have found that the breeding stock remains the same despite hunting pressure and, as last year, a severe winter.

Artificial stocking has been carried on and experiments have been made in the various types of release. The best age at which to release, Mr. Taylor is another question; 12 weeks or birds are "slightly more apt" to survive than at 10 weeks.

Even with incredibly heavy stocking, released birds do not contribute very heavily to total bags. Studies in the Okanagan area showed that certain types of orchard sprays are detrimental to pheasants but authorities have not definitely decided that sprays are a major factor in the decline. The increasing use of sprinkling systems also has an adverse effect on the pheasant population.

Experiments are going on with summer planting of the female birds, but so far survival has been low. Spring adult hens will be marked this year in an effort to determine productivity. The establishment of key areas throughout the province is another future step contemplated.

Pheasant habitat is decreasing year by year as more land comes under cultivation and a study of pheasant habitat is under way to assist in restocking.

Need Game Returns Said Mr. Taylor: "We must have a lot of basic information before we can do very much. Our knowledge depends a lot on the response from you," he told the convention in pleading for co-operation in submitting game returns.

Work on grouse has not been great, confined largely to determination of the harvest. Some work is being done on Vancouver Island.

In the speculative stage but one which much promise is held out for, is the introduction of chukkar partridge. First plantings were made last September at Kamloops and about three weeks ago some 60 were liberated near Oliver.

Concluded the game official: "We have still a great deal to do in the way of obtaining inventories and using what we get the information decisions on some of the problems will be very difficult."

Are you one of those sports fans who figures that Jack Dempsey would have knocked Joe Louis' block off if they'd met in the same ring in their prime?

Or that Nels Stewart was a more potent goal-scorer than Rocket Richard? Or that, Honus Wagner was a better batter than Stan Musial?

Don't be too sure.

A lot of old-timers figure that the sun was brighter, the wind blew harder and the girls were prettier in the old days.

But if they returned to their boyhood scenes, they'd probably find that the old swimming hole wasn't the paradise they'd remembered. Or that the wide, wide river that flowed through town was now more than 40 feet across—at flood stage.

The scenes and impressions of boyhood seem to be magnified in our imagination as the years go by. Our boyhood athletic heroes are remembered as giants, dwarfing in performance the athletic stars of today.

Track Records Sample On the whole, the sports stars of today are as good—and perhaps better—than those of past generations. If you aren't convinced, take track as an example.

You can't argue with a comparison which is made with a yardstick and a stop-watch. Track records are as good—and perhaps better—than those of past generations. If you aren't convinced, take track as an example.

In 1924—often called the Golden Age of sports—a number of seemingly unbeatable marks were set. The pole vault went to almost 13 feet, someone hurled the shot almost 50 feet. Another star jumped six feet, six inches and a superman ran the 400-metre event in 48 seconds.

Those marks look a little sad today. They've been bettered by present-day athletes, boys whose deeds haven't got the aura of the years.

In most sports, it's impossible to compare the records and come to a true comparison between performers of different decades. Rules and playing conditions have been vastly changed that they throw your conclusions for a loop.

Take baseball. The season now is longer, a vital factor when you consider a player has to maintain his batting average over a greater period. The balls being used now are as different as day and night. A new type of pitcher, such as the splitter, are taboo in the present game.

You just can't say flatly that the old stars were the best stars. It's a complicated problem of balancing the different factors over the years of fuel for discussion in the hot-stove league.

GAME DIVISION MAY HAVE MORE WORKING FUNDS

VERNON—From $50,000 to $80,000 more will be available to spend on game matters this year if legislation pending is made law. So said Game Commissioner James G. Cunningham, speaking at the twenty-second annual convention of the B.C. Interior Fish and Game Association here March 18 and 19.

Mr. Cunningham also reported that the Kootenay clubs have recommended licence increases as another method of increasing funds for fish and game work. He remarked on the fact that a $1 increase on all game licences would mean $115,000 more in the coffers this year.

Fruitful Program With regard to bounties on predators, Mr. Cunningham believed that no increases would be allowed. "I think the sportsmen will have

A PROMINENT MEMBER of the judiciary in British Columbia, and a man who in his own boyhood was an active Boy Scout, will head the Scout movement in this province during 1951.

He is Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, former Judge of the County Court of Cariboo who was elected president of the Boy Scouts Association, provincial council, at the annual meeting held recently in Vancouver. Nearly three hundred adult volunteer leaders and committee-men from all parts of the province attended the scout dinner which followed the annual meeting.

The new president succeeds Ralph D. Baker, president of Standard Oil Co. of B.C., who held office for two years and under whose leadership Scouting in British Columbia made tremendous strides. Membership of Scouts, Rovers and Cubs during his two-year term of office increased from 10,800 to 14,500.

Mr. Justice Wilson became a Scout in Nelson at the age of ten before Cubbing was introduced in one of the first Scout Troops in Canada to be inspected by the founder, Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell. Judge Wilson was especially presented to the founder, having received the Royal Humane Society Medal for gallantry in life-saving. In 1944 Mr. Justice Wilson was appointed to the Supreme Court of Canada. Since 1947 Judge Wilson has been a member of the executive committee of the B.C. Provincial Scout Association having served last year as vice-president.

The provincial council is composed of leading Vancouver and rural business men and community-minded citizens who contribute their time and efforts to the task of maintaining and extending Scout training to the youth of the province and the Yukon. Other officers and executive elected and appointed were: Provincial Commissioner, T. W. S. Parsons, O.B.E., O. St. J. vice-presidents, Maj.-Gen. W. W. Foster, C.M.G., D.S.O., Alan Williamson, O.B.E., Dr. C. H. Wright, treasurer, G. Lyall Fraser, M.M., honorary counsel, Douglas Mack Brown, executive members, R. D. Baker, Prentice Bloedel, J. M.

to admit that the government predator program has borne fruit and that reduction of some bounties may soon be made."

Mr. Cunningham also promised doubling of the output of the Summerland hatchery. Highly commended during the meeting was Jimmy Robinson of Nelson, fisheries supervisor, who will retire this year. Delegates from the various clubs attending the convention thanked him for his work in the past and for his co-operation in improving fishing in the B.C. Interior.

AN IRON is to a home sewer what a hammer is to a carpenter—an indispensable tool of the trade. When you put time into a dress or coat you want a smooth and professional-looking finished article and you'll achieve it when you press as you sew. Because pressing is such an important part of sewing, you should know all about it before you so much as buy a piece of fabric. Now let's go over some of the basic rules for pressing. Pressing and ironing, you know, require different techniques. In pressing, the iron is lowered and raised over the same spot, not pushed along the material as in ironing. Every stitch and seam should be pressed before it is crossed with another seam. Press seams in the same direction as that in which they were stitched. Skirt seams, for example, should be pressed from bottom to top. Press curved seams over a curved surface such as a pressing mitt.

Always press with the grain of the material. For instance, when pressing the surface of a four-piece bias-cut skirt, do not press straight up from bottom to top, but follow the grain which runs in a diagonal direction. Darts are usually pressed toward the center front or center back of the garment. In heavy materials they are slashed and pressed open. Underarm darts are pressed down.

Wool should be pressed moist and usually on the wrong side. Always use a press cloth on wool. When iron is used, Rayon is pressed either moist or almost dry, depending on the type of rayon. Test a scrap of the material before pressing the garment. Press on the wrong side using a press cloth. Cotton and linen should be dampened and pressed on the wrong side. It is not necessary to use a press cloth with these two fabrics.

If you keep these pressing pointers in mind it should help your sewing efforts immensely. Your clothes will fit properly and skirts will hang evenly. Even a simple item like the orandy tea apron pictured above will look crisp, neater if it is pressed correctly. If you haven't done very much home sewing a good thing to start with. All you require is a piece of flowered or patterned chintz, (a left-over will be fine), and one and a quarter yards of orandy. It makes a nice gift or it may be just the "fussy" apron you need for party occasions. For directions simply send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Dept. of this paper requesting TEA APRON, Leaflet No. E-1681.

er covered and the vegetables are cooked until just tender.

Pressure Cooking

Carefully follow the directions given for the particular type of cooker which you have, for vegetables are easy over-cooked.

Baking

Baking develops textures and flavors which are quite different from any other vegetable cookery methods. To bake vegetables, they should be thoroughly scrubbed as in the case of potatoes, or peeled as in the case of onions. If desired, they may be rubbed with fat to prevent dryness. They are placed in a moderate oven (except potatoes which require a hot oven) and baked until just tender. Vegetables are also cooked in the oven in other ways, they may be peeled and cooked in covered casserole or placed around the Sunday roast. Scalloping is another type of baking in which either raw or pre-cooked vegetables may be used.

Notes From Little Theatre

Tickets for "Ladies of The Jury" may now be obtained at Brown's Pharmacy.

It is intriguing to think of the number of different professions and occupations of the people who make up the cast of a Little Theatre play. Consider the players in "Ladies of The Jury." What a variety of careers they follow!

Three of them are school teachers: Miss Nancy Gale, who plays the part of Miss Pratt; Mrs. Hazel McDougall, who plays the leading role of Mrs. Crane; and Mrs. Margaret Bishop, who plays the part of Evelyn Snow, the maid who tries to send her former employer to the electric chair.

It looks as if there is only one housewife in the bunch—Mrs. Ethelwyn Logie, playing the part of the very Irish Mrs. Maguire.

Don Haynes, who plays the part of Steve, works in the office at Kelowna Saw Mills.

Bill Miller, the defending attorney in "Ladies of The Jury", is a hair stylist, and besides his contribution to the K.L.T. as an actor, he throws in his services when we need a special job done on some actress's hair.

Bert Johnson, who plays the part of Tony, is a clothing store proprietor (and radio commentator).

Jack Thompson, the prosecuting attorney, deals in stocks and bonds in real life.

Mr. McPhail, who plays the flowery rector in "Ladies of The Jury" is an insurance agent.

Miss Joyce Reinhold, who plays the newly-married southern belle, can be seen from nine until five evening, her living at Brown's Pharmacy.

Rex Marshall, who is doing such excellent work as Pressley, foreman of the jury, is an orchardist.

Miss Lorraine Marklinger works in an office. This young lady is one of the most impressive newcomers to the K.L.T. She plays the part of Myrna, one of the "Ladies of The Jury", and is proving to be a very talented actress.

Miss Sheila Moss, the French chorus girl defendant, and Miss Oll Dunn, as Cynthia, are still working for their junior matriculation certificates at Kelowna Senior High.

Major-General R. F. L. Keller, playing the part of the constable in charge of the jury, is one of Kelowna's aldermen.

Tony, the romantic college-boy poet, works at Bennett's Hardware.

Perhaps the most unexpected profession to be found in the cast is that of a Presbyterian clergyman in the person of Rev. W. O. Deny. Mr. Deny, a Presbyterian minister, is doing on the stage, in a play.

He insisted, however, that there was nothing unusual about what he was doing, that the main body of the Presbyterian Church in the old country was not "puritan", and that the "puritan" wing of the church had never been dominant there, as it apparently became here.

Mr. Deny, with no previous experience in drama, is doing very pleasing work in the part of the young village doctor.

The fact that there is such a variety of professions and occupations involved in this play is a very healthy sign. It shows that our Little Theatre productions are community efforts, and not the activities of a small tight clique. It gives evidence that participation in Little Theatre activities can be "broadening" just like travel.

NO SUPPORT GIVEN PROTEST PGE EXTENSION

Petition from West Vancouver City Council asking support in its protest to the extension of the PGE railway through the municipality, was received by City Council recently.

Objection was based on the grounds that it is an unnecessary financial obligation and that a highway would be more advantageous than a railroad. Kelowna aldermen, however, took no action, and the letter was filed. Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games remarked that W. A. C. Bennett, M.L.A., would probably refer to the proposed extension of the P.G.E. at a public meeting which was held Tuesday night.

Under the Tower At Ottawa

By O. L. JONES, M.P.

MARCH 21, 1951

We are still in the throes of the argument whether or not the western farmers should receive $65,000,000 in settlement of their claims under the wheat agreement.

Members from large urban areas, and particularly from the non-wheat-growing provinces, are critical of this raid on the public treasury to reimburse the prairie farmers. On the other hand, western members generally support the payment on the basis that a promise had been made to bring about an adjustment of the wheat sold to the United Kingdom at a low price to a price commensurate with the world price (which was much higher) during the period of the agreement.

Britain, as has now been proven, fulfilled her obligation in full, but apparently prairie farmers the last year or two have been led to believe that they had a substantial amount due to them. Interposed in the debate have been charges and counter-charges hurled against the minister of agriculture for misleading the House with statements regarding the United Kingdom's part in the deal.

These misleading statements are claimed to have had a profound effect on the relations between the western farmers and the government of the United Kingdom. As one member pointed out, certain farmers threatened to boycott British goods. The discussions of the last week helped to clear the air and establish the fact that no blame whatsoever rests on the United Kingdom.

The pipeline question has again been brought before the House, and I am pleased to state that the application of the Trans-Mountain Oil Pipeline Company has passed through the House. The reason I am pleased is that this company has inserted in its application one condition, that the main line will traverse an all-Canadian route through Yellowhead Pass to Vancouver. This was the very principle that we members from British Columbia fought for last year, thus assuring to our province the first use of oil before it reaches Seattle and Tacoma.

Rough Passage
Later on the same day, a bill was introduced to incorporate the Border Pipeline Corporation. This bill did not include a promise to follow a Canadian route, but presumably intends to go through Spokane and the United States to Seattle, ending up in Vancouver. It had a very rough passage, with the member for the Fraser Valley speaking at length in order to delay the passage of this bill.

A bill to increase the capitalization of the British Columbia Telephone Company was before us and came in for heavy criticism because of its request for an increase of capitalization to the extent of $50,000,000. Mr. Cruickshank, after outlining his reasons for opposing the application, moved an amendment to reduce the capital sum to $35,000,000. After some discussion, the amendment was ruled out of order.

A start has been made on the Indian Act. The object of the act, as stated by Hon. W. E. Harris, is as follows:

"The underlying principles of Indian legislation throughout the year have been protection and advancement of the Indian population. In the earlier period the main emphasis was on protection. But as the Indians became more self-reliant and capable of successfully adapting themselves to modern conditions, more emphasis is being laid on greater participation and responsibility by Indians in the conduct of their own affairs. Indeed, it may be said that ever since confederation the underlying purpose of Indian administration has been to prepare the Indians for full citizenship with the same rights and responsibilities as those enjoyed and accepted by other members of the community."

Original Habits

Mr. Bryce, member for Selkirk following the minister, had the following to say, which seems to sum up the general feeling that Indians should be given an opportunity to become more self-reliant and fit more closely into our way of life.

"I understand from different sources that the Indians in eastern Canada are beginning to take their place in industry and agriculture. While serving on the Indians committee I had the privilege and pleasure of seeing for myself conditions among the Indians. Indians on the prairies, especially in the northern parts, and in parts of my old constituency, still stick largely to their original habits of living by hunting, trapping and fishing.

According to information I received when I visited reservations on the Pacific coast, it would seem that there are many instances where the Indians fit into the white man's life, where they work as loggers and fishermen. However, from everywhere one hears reports of the desperate conditions of poverty and the ill health resulting from the conditions under which they live.

"With the Indian population on the increase this bill becomes necessary. It is not possible or desirable to treat Indians perpetually as alien enemies in our midst. They must eventually be brought to the stage where they can mingle with whites on terms of equality. We owe a great debt to the Indian. We got this great country of ours from them and in return we pay $5 per year to all treaty Indians. That seems little to give in exchange for a country.

'51 CAMPAIGN OF RED CROSS WELL UNDERWAY

Despite the bad weather and difficulties of transportation, Red Cross canvassers in all parts of British Columbia are on the job. This army of volunteers is hard at work and determined to better the 1951 campaign objective in this province of $550,000.

$550,000 is B.C.'s share of the five million national objective, which is urgently needed to carry on the work of the Red Cross for the coming year.

"In addition to the multitude of peacetime services, the Red Cross program is being stepped up to cover disaster preparedness plans," stated Hon. E. W. Hamber, provincial campaign chairman.

"The free blood transfusion service is being extended to answer the call for blood and plasma for the medical departments of the armed services, and for stockpiling for civil defence," Mr. Hamber explained.

"Courses in home nursing are being increased so that in time of a national or home emergency there would be more trained women to ease the nursing situation.

"The women's work units of all the branches are working on an accelerated program producing all types of clothing, and the provincial women's work committee is assembling this clothing into disaster kits, to be distributed in the event of a disaster. The kits contain complete outfits for children of all ages.

"The Red Cross is keeping in tune with the times," Mr. Hamber stressed, "and at the same time not forgetting its present commitments such as outposts hospitals, continued assistance to all veterans, and supplying blood and blood products for civilian use.

"Don't forget the Red Cross is you, acting for you on your behalf. The Red Cross needs your support."

MODERN INKS CALL FOR NEW METHODS OF STAIN REMOVAL

If you've been using old-fashioned "folklore" remedies for removing ink stains, it's time you got up to date.

Time was then all kinds of milk and sometimes salt and vinegar were used in dealing with such spots. But today's inks call for different treatment. Robert S. Casey, research director, is an authority for these tips.

Act quickly. A plain-water rinse will suffice for the "first aid" operation. It will get out most of the water-soluble dye.

The next step depends on whether it was "washable" or "permanent" ink. If you don't know which kind made the spot, start with the remedy for washable ink and try permanent ink treatment in succession until you find one that is effective.

The treatment for washable inks is relatively simple because these inks actually are "wash-out-able." After the plain-water rinse; a reasonable amount of patience and persistent soap-and-water washing will take such stains completely out of any fabric which is itself washable. Stubborn or old spots may require repeated treatments over several days.

If the fabric is not washable, use one of the special agents. Permanent inks ("blue-black" is almost always permanent) are a little more difficult to remove. As it dries, this ink forms an iron compound that is darker in color and insoluble in water. For this reason it is especially important to treat in water right away. The iron substance has a chance to "set" in the fabric. Then apply citric acid (lemon juice is a handy form of it) and rinse thoroughly again. If there is still some remnant of the stain left, follow the procedure for washable ink stains until it disappears completely.

CONFER WITH BENNETT OVER GOV'T BUILDING

Commenting on a story appearing in the March 15 issue of The Courier to the effect that Kelowna will not get its public building this year, Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games expressed disappointment over the government's policy when the matter was briefly discussed at a recent council meeting.

City fathers agreed that no action should be taken until council has had an opportunity to interview W. A. C. Bennett, M.L.A.

The mayor said he had telephoned Mr. Bennett in Victoria after reading the story in The Courier. His Worship suggested that action be postponed until council had conferred with the local M.L.A.

He remarked the city has been pressing for a public building for the past four years, and that it had been promised on more than one occasion. To pave the way, the city agreed to exchange lakeshore property with that owned by the government so that the structure could be built on Water Street opposite the City Hall.

In 1949, Canadians on the average attended motion pictures 18 times and paid about $7 each in admissions.

It now appears we have another law that the government knows it can't enforce in its entirety. For years the liquor law has been on the books and the government knows it can't be enforced, mostly because the public won't co-operate in enforcing it.

Now we have the Hospital Insurance Act and the government has enacted the thoroughly bad principle that if you can't pay—well, nothing much will happen to you. True, blood can't be drawn from a stone—but for cabinet ministers to stand in the legislature and advise people to break the law is not only dangerous, it leads to contempt for all laws on the part of the public.

Mrs. Tilly Rolston said at the beginning of the session that with hospital insurance the government has a lion by the tail. Her statement seemed extreme at the time, but not so now. In the memory of this reviewer, no subject has stirred up the people quite like hospital insurance.

Political Question

It has become a political question within the Coalition, of course. Finance Minister Ansonbom is determined that it will pay its own way; the Liberal wing of the Coalition would have taken the deficit from consolidated revenue or increased the sales tax—the painless way. Mr. Ansonbom would have no part of it. Maurice Finnelly, Liberal-Conservative, said he hoped the show would be a success.

He said hospital deficits couldn't come from consolidated revenue because of the political viewpoint of the minister of finance. Mr. Ansonbom, giving his budget, said a most extraordinary—as from one cabinet minister to another. He said he hoped Health and Welfare Minister Turnbull would administer the act in a realistic fashion because if he did not there'd be more shortages. Mr. Ansonbom seemed to say that he hadn't much faith in Mr. Turnbull and his Liberal colleagues.

It's not often a government loses five supporters over a major measure. But that's what happened over hospital insurance—and W. A. C. Bennett, Conservative-Unionist, South Okanagan quit the government benches altogether and became an independent. And, standing in their places on the floor of the House and definitely voting against the government were Andrew Whisker of Cowichan-Newcastle; Maurice Finnelly of Similkameen; Mrs. Tilly Rolston of Point Grey and Dr. J. J. Gillis of Yale.

Bennett's Future?
Mr. Bennett, having made his decision, and gone through with it seemed to have a sense of new-found freedom. His desk was changed from the front government benches and placed up against the C.C.F. Mr. Bennett seemed happy and content. Everyone speculated on his future. What does the future hold for this stormy petrel? There were those who said he's finished; others that he's just starting to become a noted provincial figure, that he would organize the Social Credit and attempt to lead that party to victory in the next election.

The government, after the first shock of seeing one of its supporters walk out, was doubtless glad for Mr. Bennett's decision. Now that he has gone the government will get its way a little more easily. Mr. Bennett's action created a housing problem in the legislative buildings. He no longer can use the Coalition members' room, and there isn't anywhere else to put him, but some corner will be found after the Easter recess. The C.C.F. members have a big common room; opposition leader Harold Winch has his own office; Tom Uphill, being a party of one, has his own room and Mrs. Tilly Rolston has a room to herself.

The rank and file of the civil service is seething with anger because the government has given more money to some deputy ministers and to the judges, at the same time ignoring those in the lower brackets. No one doubts the importance of the deputies and the work they do; no one doubts that the hard-working justices of the Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court should receive more money in these days. The extra pay for the deputies and the justices, of course, is a mere drop in the bucket—only about $30,000 a year. On the other hand, a 15 per cent increase for the 8,000 civil servants would cost $2,000,000 a year.

It's a small matter in itself—giving certain people more money—but it leads to endless trouble. Here's the government saying it's worried about inflation—yet at the same time it's giving out money. No doubt of that. It's too bad there isn't a bigger opposition which could go through the $118,000,000 budget and pick out the government's extravaganzas. They're all small items—but they add up. Take travelling expenses—$1,500,000 a year—and growing—each year a colossal sum for a province with a comparatively small population.

Broken Faith

It's these sort of things that enrage the civil servants when, at the same time, they can't get more money. The government is now considering their case. But the civil servants are sore. A delegation from the B.C. Government Employees' Association saw the cabinet the other day and used some tough language. They said the government had broken faith in the matter of cost-of-living bonus. A brief read to the government said: "It would appear the employees are the victims of their own good faith. It is the mutual desire of the government and the association to maintain the government service at near optimum operating efficiency. We both recognize that the citizens of the province are entitled to the best in government service. However, the association fails to see how this can be accomplished in the face of the continued exodus from the service on the part of young men who find it impossible to refuse to take advantage of the greater opportunities and remuneration to be received in private industry. Unless something is done for these employees, the government will continue to serve as a mere training ground for said employees before they leave the service. The association maintains this to be a poor use of good material."

Then there's the case of the retired civil servants. They've been after the government for a long time for a cost-of-living bonus, but so far have had no luck. A delegation of retired employees saw the government the other day and said this: "When you consider that the superannuation dollar today buys only about one-half, or less than half, what it did when they contributed their portion to the superannuation fund, we think you must agree that this is a moderate and reasonable request."

Three famous landmarks near the legislative buildings are being torn down to make way for a parking lot for government employees. They are the old homes of David Spencer, his son Chris and of W. G. Cameron, one-time Victoria alderman. They are on government property across from the War Memorial entrance to the legislative buildings. The David Spencer home was built in 1873 and there grew up the 13 children—five sons and eight daughters—of the pioneer merchant who built a great business from a modest beginning. In 1903 the eldest son, Chris, built an 11-room home next door and took his bride there. They lived in the house until about 1910 when Chris was sent to Vancouver by his father to start the mainland business of David Spencer Limited. The Cameron home went up about 1882. In recent years the three have been rooming houses. Eventually the government hopes to put up a museum and art gallery on this corner. The parking lot is bound to be an eyesore in so prominent a part of the city's front door. Tree lovers are afraid the government will order down the magnificent maples that now give atmosphere to this area.

ALDERMAN GETS ANNOYED OVER CHICKEN BYLAW

Alderman R. F. L. Keller got somewhat impatient over the way the city bylaw governing the keeping of chickens inside the municipality has been bandied around council in recent weeks. Discussing latest representations made by the Kelowna Ratepayers' Association requesting the council to amend regulations so that a poultry house may be 60 feet from a residence, Alderman Keller literally "blew up" after the matter had been discussed for about ten minutes.

Meet Halfway

"I think we are bogging ourselves down with a lot of nonsense. Surely... a man can keep a few chickens to escape paying the high price for eggs without being involved in a lot of red tape," he declared.

Alderman Jack Ladd stated he was in favor of the bylaw going through in its present state. "We do not want to work a hardship on those people keeping chickens. We want to meet them half way," he said.

The mayor explained that in the event a man has insufficient room on his property to come within regulations, and providing neighbors do not object to a poultry house being too close to a house, the city would be inclined to overlook the matter. However, sanitary regulations would be strictly enforced, he said.

"I think that's a pretty weak way of getting around it, (the by-law) remarked Alderman Dick Parkinson.

It was then that Alderman Keller got somewhat annoyed.

The matter was finally tabled until Alderman Bob Knox submits an amendment to the bylaw. Proposed amendments to the chicken bylaw have been before council for over four months.

ADVERTISING HAS DEVELOPED WESTERN CANADA

"Advertising has too long been too hesitant about advertising itself," declared Harold J. Merilees, Vancouver, president of the Advertising Association of the West, in a special message to the Kelowna Courier.

Mr. Merilees' message follows a proclamation earlier this week from Premier Byron Johnson, setting the week of March 25-31 as Advertising Recognition Week. "Let's look at the record," Merilees' message stated.

"Before World War II, the West was built by the power and attraction of advertising. First tourists, then permanent residents, and finally business to keep the new population busy and self-supporting, was brought to the West by advertising."

Then, Merilees said that advertising developed the demand in every part of the world for the products of the West so they could be effectively mass produced and sold. "Advertising has served as the impelling factor and steady influence of our whole Western economy," the note continued.

"And advertising has not devoted its efforts alone to bettering business. In war time, advertising has more than assumed its obligations to the men and women in service. Blood for the Red Cross, Victory Bonds, needed recruiting, are but a few of the contributions advertising made."

"And now, most important of all, the advertising know-how has been converted into making our people and the people of the world aware of the value and need for our free way of life to continue."

The port of Churchill, Man., handled a record number of 20 ships during the brief 1950 shipping season.

CHURCH ZONING BYLAW WILL BE DISCUSSED

A special meeting will be called by the City Council to consider amendments to the city zoning bylaw which will prohibit churches on Bernard Avenue, west of Bertram Street.

Recently, Alderman W. T. L. Roadhouse served notice he would recommend an amendment to the bylaw which would prohibit permanent use of the Empress Theatre as a place of worship. The special meeting will be held April 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber.

The mayor pointed out that he did not want the "wrong idea" conveyed to the public in preventing the use of the theatre for church services, but the amendment would merely curb any organization taking over the theatre and using it exclusively for church services.
